Chamber guest a top speaker

Homer Leonard, the guest speaker for the 1977 Georgetown Chamber of Commerce Banquet, enjoys a reputation as one of Texas' top after-dinner speakers.

Best known as a humorist, Leonard has appeared in every part of the state and the nation and as an entertainer on a number of cruise ships.

HE SERVED in the Texas Legislature for 16 years, including two years as Speaker of the House. During those years he lived in McAllen where he owned the newspaper and engaged in many civic activities. He was named the most valuable citizen of McAllen in 1941.

Leonard now lives in Austin. Among honors which have come to him are honorary life memberships in the Zachary Scott Theater and the National Secretaries Association. He was named "Boss of the Year" for Austin in 1960 and has been elected president of the Austin Club 18 times.

MR. AND MRS. LEONARD have also received many local awards and two statewide awards for their work in behalf of the retarded children of Texas.

Among testimonials to Leonard's abilities as a humorist are letters of praise from the Texas Surveyors Association, the Texas LP-Gas Association, the Jefferson County Bar Association, the Austin Headliners Club, and the Town Lake Chapter of the American Business Women's Association.

Voters to decide beer question

Local option on beer and wine

Georgetown residents will go to the polls on the question of local beer and wine sales in Justice Precinct 1 soon, probably on February 5.

A PETITION, signed by 600 persons was received by County Clerk Dick Cervenka last Wed. After checking each signature against voter registration lists, Cervenka certified Thursday that 541 of the signatures were valid. 533 signatures were needed to call the election. The other 59 signatures were either not those registered voters or were illegible.

The petition called for an election to decide for or against the sale of beer and wine in Justice Precinct 1. Voters must vote yes or no for beer and wine sales for consumption both on and off the premises.

After the petition is checked by the Texas Alcoholic Beverage Commission, Cervenka will present the petition to the Williamson County Commissioners' Court in its next regularly scheduled meeting on January 10.

Commissioners will then be required to call a local option election on a date not less than 20 days or more than 30 days from the January 10 meeting.

The election will probably be called on Febrary 5, said County Clerk Dick Cervenka.

Justice Precinct 1 is one of two precincts in the county that are dry. Five precincts allow some form of alcohol sales. The justice precinct that Taylor is in has legal sale of all alcoholic beverages and the precinct that Round Rock is in allows just the sale of beer.

One of the organizers of the present petition, Claxton Joy, said he thinks the approval of local beer and wine sales has a good chance of being approved this time.

New people to Georgetown, and the college vote, may change the outcome of the election, said Joy.

Three years ago Justice Precinct 1 voted against the local sale of beer and wine for off premises consumption by a vote of 1,177 to 803.

Week's news in a nutshell

Texas Power and Light Company, which supplies electricity to a large part of Texas including a sizeable chunk of Williamson County, shocked its customers this week with a request for rate increases averaging about 35 percent. Taylor's city commission told the firm Tuesday night that it wasn't prepared to deal with that item. "We need time to study this request," TP&L's local manager Bill Black was told. Round Rock is also a TP&L town, as is Granger, Thrall, Hutto, Round Rock, Coupland and probably others. The utilities firm is asking the State Utilities Commission for authority to impose practically the same increases on rural customers. The Round Rock city fathers are expected to talk about the rate request at their next scheduled meeting, January 6.

CHRIS PETRISON, WRITING in the Round Rock Leader, said that new faces on the County Commissioners' Court could change its mood in the next four years. Citing the election of Carl Lidell and Raymond Rister, the article pointed out that each new man has his "own set of priorities and goals for the upcoming commissioners court." Right now, Petrison said, Lidell wants to extend the ambulance service with Cedar Park and Round Rock on the 1976 basis in 1977. "This will be made in a motion to the court." Rister wants better collections by the ambulance service stations and he is particularly interested in providing improved roads for his rural (Granger-Jarrell) precinct.

Operating expenses for the Round Rock public school system went from $2,060,861 in 1971-72 to $7,093,627 last year with the current school year all set to use about $10 million. These figures include construction.

Big Chamber banquet set for Tuesday

Excellent food, good company, a great speaker, fine entertainment from local musicians, and the presentations of a number of coveted awards — that's what the Georgetown Area Chamber of Commerce has lined up for its 1977 Annual Banquet to be held in the Southwestern University Commons this coming Tuesday night, Jan. 4.

KNOWN as a long-anticipated yearly social and civic event, the banquet is expected to draw another large crowd from Georgetown and western Williamson County.

Dinner will be prepared by the Southwestern University Food Service, under the direction of Alan Jones, and served buffet style beginning at 7 p.m.

Homer Leonard, a well-known after dinner speaker from Austin acclaimed as one of the state's top humorists, will address the gathering while KTBC-TV's Dick Ellis acts as master of ceremonies. Georgetown's own Shade Tree Polka Band led by Doc Gamble will provide dinner music.

Highlight of the evening will be the presentation of awards, including those for the Outstanding Man and Woman of the Year, the Outstanding Agriculturist, and a Service Award.

THE BANQUET will get under way with a call to order by Chamber President N. B. "Bode" McCormick, followed by the introduction of Ellis and an invocation by Tom Graves, pastor of the First United Methodist Church of Georgetown.

Chamber director Ken Poteete will introduce his fellow directors and the guests seated at the head table, then Paul Williams will present Lisa DeWitt, Miss Georgetown 1976-77, and the Duchesses of her court. Herb Hanson will introduce out of town guests.

Following the awards presentation Leonard will speak, then Alvis Nichols, minister of the Georgetown Church of Christ, will close the banquet with a benediction.

"THE BASIC PURPOSE of the banquet," said Chamber manager Lloyd L. Longley, "is for the membership to meet. We will be having a couple of other membership meetings during the year, but we hope this will be the big one, that a lot of the membership will attend. This is our time to thank departing officers and directors, to install new ones, and to recognize some of the outstanding members of our community."

Longley pointed out, however, that the banquet is not only for members or associates of the Chamber of Commerce. "There will be a number of out of town guests there,too, including some of our legislative representatives," he said. "We already have some reservations from areas in the western part of the county.

"OUR SPEAKER has a lot of experience and is of regional renown," he added, "our band will be exceptional, and it will be a big social event. We also expect that people will be seated and served more quickly this year."

Tickets for the banquet are $6 each, available from the Chamber office at 103 W. Seventh St. in Georgetown or from any Chamber director.

Deadline for reserving a table for groups or organizations is 5 p.m. Monday, Jan. 3. To reserve a table, drop by the Chamber office or call there (863-2251); leave your name and the number of guests for whom you want reserved seats.

The Feds have a new set of rules making it more difficult for business establishments to resfuse credit and for bill collectors to do their job. This means, of course, that millions of deadbeats are cheering all over the country. It means, also that millions upon millions of dollars will go uncollected in the future and that honest people will pay more for what they buy. Business establishments have no other course but to raise prices when their own costs, of which unpaid accounts constitute a large portion, go up.

The community is poorer for not having Burkhart's News Stand over on the south side of the square. Several came into my office and discussed the enterprise but more recently I haven't heard a thing.

ALL THE COUNTRY will be pleased, I think, at President-elect Carter's appointment of his running mate, Walter Mondale, as his "chief staff person" in the White House. This was an unprecedented move. Presidents in the past have paid scant attention to vice-presidents. In fact, in quite a few instances they have ridiculed and embarrassed them. Mondale, as an elected official with 12 years of experience, should be of great help to the relatively inexperienced president.

Attorney appointed for Pedro Muniz

Austin Attorney Gabriel "Gabe" Gutierrez was appointed this week to represent Pedro Cruz Muniz, who remained in the Williamson County Jail at midafternoon Thursday after he was charged with the murder of Southwestern University coed Janice Bickham.

Gutierrez was appointed Tuesday by 26th District Court Judge Kirby Vance.

DISTRICT ATTORNEY-elect Ed Walsh said Thursday he would present the case against Muniz to the Williamson County grand jury which meets in Georgetown Jan. 11.

It would be up to that grand jury whether to determine any possible indictments against Muniz after consideration of the report of an autopsy performed on the Van Vleck woman's body last week.

History is moving...down the road

Were you passed by a very large house?

by PEGGY SWIFT

Truly amazing, a 2½ story house moving up Austin Avenue, heading for Weir!

Tuesday, December 28, at 10 a.m. the old George Washington Glasscock Jr. home that sat at the corner of Austin Avenue and Williams Drive (the Andice Road) was moved after being split in half vertically, lifted from its foundation and loaded on two huge trucks.

Workers from the City of Georgetown, Pedernales Electric Coop., General Telephone, Mid-Tex Telephone and the Williamson County Cablevision Company combined efforts with Curry Homemovers to move the giant Victorian structure. High lines had to be moved and signs unbolted to allow the house to move down the road.

THE HISTORIC HOME was built in 1879 by George Washington Glasscock Jr., the son of the man for whom Georgetown was named. Old timers remember the house as being very distinctive, sitting alone in the Georgetown suburbs called Northtown. It was at one time painted white with bright red trim.

Sam and Linda Taylor are the new owners of this rambling nineteenth century masterpiece. They had been looking for an old house for about three years when the couple spotted the Glasscock home.

Bob Stanton of Georgetown owned the old house and the land on which it sat. He wanted to preserve the historic house but he also wanted it moved to allow him to clear the land for commercial use.

In August of 1975, the Taylors purchased the house. Problems seemed to meet the new owners at every turn. A mover had to be found, utility companies contacted and a date agreeable to all set for the move. In addition, the unpredictable Texas weather had to cooperate.

O. R. CURRY, a homemover from Rockdale, proved to be the key to the moving problem. Sam Taylor's parents had considered moving an old house years ago and the name that came up was O. R. Curry. Lady Bird Johnson had several homes moved. The name of the contractor was Curry. A. E. Shenk of the City of Georgetown Electric Department checked into the names of homemovers. The company recommended to him most often was Curry Homemovers.

Curry split the old house in half vertically, lifted it off its foundation and moved it down the road as easily as some people pull a trailer. "It was amazing how the drivers could maneuver those trucks," Taylor commented.

The Victorian mansion now sits on a five acre tract of land near Weir, waiting to be put back together. Curry will handle that problem too, possibly in as little as three to four weeks.

What then?

THE TAYLORS plan to work on the house themselves. After they get one bedroom, a bath and the kitchen in shape, they will move in to their "new" old home, hopefully within four months. They will work on the rest of the giant structure a little at a time while they live there.

Sam and Linda Taylor are not builders, or interior decorators or history buffs. They simply fell in love with a big old house and wanted to make it theirs. Now it is theirs and as the old timers say, "They don't make 'em like that any more."

DID YOU SEE THAT HOUSE? — The old George Washington Glasscock Jr. home, split in half and rolling down the road toward Weir presented quite a sight for Georgetown residents last Tuesday. It reached its destination just outside Weir around 5:30 p.m. After it is put back together and plumbing, electricity and gas installed, this historic home will be the "new" old home of Sam, Linda and Sammie Taylor. YOUR $600 SHOES

President-elect Jimmy Carter has had "Southern exposure." He was there when it happened to the South.

HE KNOWS THAT the economic renaissance of Dixie relates directly to that area's right-to-work laws. More production at less production cost nurtured existing industries and spawned a generation of vigorous new ones.

As productivity favored the South in competition with other areas of our nation, productivity could prosper our nation in competition with other nations.

Here's how:

WORKERS IN BASIC American industries have been demanding and getting so-called cost-of-living wage increases averaging 8 percent per year.

Maybe that's a good idea; maybe it's not. Let's project the practice a few years down the road and see where it's leading.

LET'S SAY YOU average $4 an hour on your present job and your contract calls for a cost-of-living increase each year. Every time the cost of living goes up your earnings are increased. That sounds fair.

But is it?

Recently your rate of increase has averaged 8 percent per year, compounding. By the time you have worked 45 years—and are age 65 — your wage will be $199 per hour!

That sounds great! But is it?

By the time you are making $199 an hour — the butcher, the baker and the shoemaker are also getting $199 an hour. So your $12 pair of shoes now costs $600!

Whatever that is, it's not progress.

And this is precisely what has already happened to some degree in the United States and to a much greater degree in Britain and elsewhere.

Jimmy Carter has to be well aware of his political debt to labor's leaders. Yet both he and they have a magnificent opportunity to demonstrate economic statesmanship. They can listen to and learn from Britain's Labor prime minister who is pleading, "Please don't follow us!"

And we don't have to.

SOME ENLIGHTENED UNIONS, particularly in the building trades, have recognized that they have "priced themselves out of a job." So they have voluntarily negotiated for themselves wage decreases. They are working for less than the amount specified in their union contracts in a self-interest effort to hypo home building.

These workers — looking down the road ahead — recognize that million dollar houses and $600 shoes pinch everybody!

Good living - here!

An Austin-American headline caught our eye Thursday morning. It read: "Our air is among the best. Health officials (sniff) delighted with (sniff) Austin's rating as a good place to live."

Austin having good air means, simply, that Georgetown also has good air and by this time we all know that it is an even better place to live than the Capital City!

GEORGETOWN HAS A POTENTIAL problem in the giant Texas Crushed Stone operation south of town. Indeed, for several years it was more than a potential trouble-maker, but, in the past few years the company has done an excellent job of controlling the problem.

There will be a time, we suppose, when manufacturing plants, business establishments and homes in this area will be burning coal. Then, we'll have atmospheric problems translated into respiratory problems for a large portion of the population. That day seems at least 20 to 30 years away and in that interval perhaps we will see solar energy take over.

In the meantime, we are glad Austin and Georgetown and all the area has clean air, "among the best."

WHAT WE DO NEED to be working on is tobacco smoke pollution in our public places, such as post office, city hall, county courthouse, libraries, hospitals and other similar locations where people must congregate and remain even though the smoke is doing them harm.

Austin — like Georgetown — is also a victim of allergies derived from cedar pollen. We don't expect to see the day when all cedar is chopped out of the area but we do believe medical science of our country will come up with a better answer for the individual sufferers than it now has.

TEXAS IS A GOOD place to live. It is 23rd in longevity, the best of any southern state. Our area also can claim a lower rate of cancer, and a lower-than-average rate of mortality from heart disease, we find.

So, as the New Year begins we have our location — right in the heart of Texas — to be thankful for. Let's all resolve to make it an even better place to live, work and raise our children.

Unjamming the wheels of justice

By George B. Merry

Boston

Alice McDonough, a Boston mother of eight injured in a freak supermarket accident, has had her "day in court."

But it was three years and hundreds of dollars of medical, child care, and legal expenses after the incident.

Situations like this are not unusual in Massachusetts and in a decreasing number of other states where some litigants have to wait as much as five and a half years to get their civil suits before a jury.

Major progress, however, is being made toward unjamming court dockets and improving the overall administration of justice.

States take action

In recent years at least a dozen states — including Alabama, Alaska, Colorado, Florida, Hawaii, Idaho, Iowa, Illinois, North Carolina, Oklahoma, Pennsylvania, and South Dakota — have made marked improvements in the structure and operation of their trial courts.

Court reform efforts have been proposed or are under way in about three quarters of the states, according to Harvard Law Prof. Archibald Cox, who headed a special judicial needs study commission in Massachusetts.

His panel, after reviewing what has been done elsewhere and seems to be working best, has recommended reorganization of Bay State trial courts into a two-tiered structure, under the administrative jurisdiction of the chief justice of the Massachusetts Supreme Judicial Court.

The Cox Commission proposals, which have the unqualified and enthusiastic support of Gov. Michael S. Dukakis, are focused largely on making the state's trial courts run better and thus eliminate the heavy backlog of cases awaiting trial.

Terming present court-clogged conditions "intolerable," the one-time Watergate Special Prosecutor notes that, in the decade from 1964 to 1974, the criminal caseload backlog in the Massachusetts superior court increased 14-fold — from about 6,000 to more than 80,000.

Massachusetts also has the dubious distinction of having six of the 12 counties in the nation with the greatest delays in bringing civil cases to trial.

One of 16 states

Massachusetts is one of 16 states where proposals for improvements in the court systems are under consideration or expected to be taken up soon, according to a spokesman for the National Center for State Courts.

Besides the Bay State, those are: Arizona, Indiana, Kansas, Kentucky, Mississippi, Nevada, Ohio, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas, Utah, Washington, West Virginia, Wisconsin, and Wyoming.

The major thrust of many, but not all of these, is either toward court consolidations or centralized administration of trial courts.

Although the trend has been gaining momentum, particularly during the past few years, the idea of a central administrator with broad jurisdiction over all courts is not new.

The arrangement was first introduced in New Jersey in 1947, under that state's then-Supreme Court Chief Justice Arthur Vanderbilt.

Better utilization

While no two states appear to have unified or restructured their courts in exactly the same way or to the same extent, court system critics say they generally bring improvements in the case flow through more effective utilization of judicial manpower and facilities.

Improved scheduling as a result of operational changes introduced in Maine during the past 18 months has wiped out all case backlogs.

'Some of our courts were over a year behind in civil cases — now litigants can get a trial in 30 to 60 days," says Elizabeth Belshaw, Maine's court administrator.

HAPPY NEW YEAR!

One of the most important topics that will be in the spotlight during the legislative session will be that topic of "energy".

Many of you have learned more than you've ever wanted to know about "energy" and related matters like "fuel adjustment charges" and the like. I think we all feel that our electricity bills are just too high and those of you who must purchase your electricity from an electric cooperative, well, you are very familiar with the rising costs of natural gas.

It would be a mild statement to say that it will require a great deal of careful, knowledgeable consideration on the various pieces of energy legislation to come up with laws that will do the greatest good for the greatest number of people. I want to mention now, though, a few of the bills that will definitely affect almost everyone:

—One bill will exempt all residential customers from paying the state sales tax on natural gas and electricity. This would mean a savings of four cents on every dollar of your electric or gas bill and, based on my preliminary knowledge of the bill, I heartily endorse it. It might not sound like much savings but over the long run, I think those pennies will add up.

—Another bill that sounds like a good one will require public hearings before gas or electric utility companies could charge customers for increased fuel costs.

I believe that this will help eliminate confusion, misunderstanding and, simply, lack of information, about why there are things like the "fuel adjustment charge" on our electric bills.

Listen to that ragtime sound

"Ragtime Piano" will be the theme for the Georgetown Music Study Club's first meeting of the New Year.

January 5 at 2 p.m. the home of Suzie Snead at 1610 East Fifteenth will be filled with piano music Scott Joplin style, performed by Dorothy Colvin of Austin.

Hostesses for the event will be Flo Mills and Barbara Hays.

AUSTIN NOTEBOOK

By Bill Kidd

AUSTIN — John Tower's divorce became final last week, providing the occasion for increased speculation on what — or who — the future holds for the top Republican office-holder from Texas.

In fact, a few random shots have already come Tower's way, and the new year likely will see the number of shots and shooters increase.

TOWER'S POLITICAL TROUSERS were ripped in Kansas City because of his support (perhaps viewed as greater than it really was) for Gerald Ford.

That distressed Ronald Reagan's supporters in the Texas delegation — and the memory of an elephant, whether Indian, African or Republican, is proverbial.

But Tower's difficulties aren't likely to come from his own party, which is more concerned with regrouping and infusing new life into its rather tattered structure than in punishing its few incumbents for past sins against would-have-been incumbents.

Already, several Democrats are beginning to push forward (in speculation, anyway) as challengers to Tower.

BOARD OF INSURANCE CHAIRMAN Joe Christie, former State Senator from El Paso, has confessed that the race has some charm as far as he is concerned.

While Christie has been talked about for awhile as a possible opponent for Tower, some observers feel he would have considerable trouble raising the funds necessary to have a chance at defeating the Senator from Texas.

After Christie, another former Senator is mentioned frequently: U. S. Rep. Barbara Jordan.

Jordan has great charisma — but observers question whether she could succeed in a statewide race against Tower — or whether she could even gain the Democratic nomination.

Jordan's office has indicated Jordan is thinking about the possibility.

Then there's another colleague of Jordan, who also served with her and Christie on the east side of the Capitol Rotunda: U.S. Rep. Charles Wilson of Diboll.

WILSON ISN'T A STATEWIDE name — and he, like Christie, would be expected to encounter problems financing his campaign.

Another Congressman, U.S. Rep. Bob Krueger of New Braunfels, has been actively maneuvering in the early going — taking a few shots across the bow from veteran skirmisher, Comptroller Bob Bullock.

Krueger's not a statewide name either — and he's a newcomer in the political area.

But he has received a surprising amount of support for a possible race from politicoes in his area — and Krueger admits the thought has been going through his mind.

Land Commissioner Bob Armstrong has been mentioned, also — when he wasn't being mentioned as a possible appointee for the Department of the Interior secretaryship.

Now that Jimmy Carter has filled that post, speculation has gone back to Armstrong as a senatorial possibility.

Also mentioned as a potential candidate is Houston Mayor Fred Hofheinz.

HOFHEINZ HAS THE ADVANTAGE of considerable built-in name recognition and financing capability — and his administration in Houston reportedly has been fairly popular.

But Hofheinz has indicated he's thinking about running for another term as mayor, and observers of Houston politics feel, he's a long shot.

Of course, it's always possible Tower might be eliminated by one of his own kind — State GOP Chairman Fay Hutchison of Dallas has been mentioned for that attempt.

One thing is certain — as the year goes on, so will the speculation.

STATE Capital NEWS

AUSTIN — Southwestern Bell Telephone Company is seeking rehearing of a Public Utility Commission order approving a $57.8 million rate increase out of $298.3 million requested.

At the same time, the company filed modified tariffs as outlined in the December 14 PUC order reducing residential and business rates some $64 million.

The new rates would be effective the first billing day after acceptance of the new schedule by PUC.

"We can't live with the rate order handed down," said Doyle E. Rogers, Bell vice-president. "We must serve the people of Texas, and are required by law to do so. Yet, the commission's order endangers our ability to meet service demands — despite every effort we make to meet our obligations."

Rogers charged the commission "went outside the records to arrive at its findings . . . and guaranteed additional future expense for consumers."

Bell's requirements for massive new amounts of capital won't go away, the company contended in announcing it will seek a rehearing.

Rogers said the company cannot earn the return the commission order allowed while using PUC staff standards.

PUC said it will consider the motion for rehearing in public hearing.

New Job for Schnabel

Schnabel will be administrator of a Texas Rehabilitation Commission program for the severely handicapped. He will join the TRC staff February 1 at a salary of $25,608. Schnabel announced November 8, two months after pleading guilty to a misdemeanor official misconduct charge, that he would not seek re-election as Senate Secretary.

Democrats Rolling

State Party Chairman Calvin Guest of Bryan named sub-committees on rules, nominations, resolutions, legal affairs, education, publications, clubs and organizations, recruitment, affirmative action, voter registration, legislative affairs and budget-finance.

Directing programs will be staff members Dwayne Holman of Pampa, overall program director; Marc Campos of Austin, research; Joe Gagen of Fort Worth, financial development and Ann Elam of Austin, budget officer. Mary Elizabeth Olfield of Austin will continue as administrative assistant to the chairman.

Special publications, workshops, a speakers bureau and a film library are among projects on the drawing board.

Seadock Cleared

U. S. Secretary of Transportation William T. Coleman Jr. approved Seadock's application for a deepwater port license 26 miles south of Freeport, and Gov. Dolph Briscoe said the project will significantly improve the Texas economy.

The project is expected to get underway by mid-1977. It is designed to offload 2.5 million barrels of crude oil daily and is scheduled for full operation in late 1979 or early 1980.

A consortium of oil companies will build the deepwater facility.

Changes Ordered

Texas is under order to bring its unemployment compensation act in line with federal law. If the legislature doesn't do it, employers could face a $600 million increase in their unemployment taxes.

Starting Jan. 1, 1978, city, county, school and other local government employees must be granted jobless benefits. Small farm and domestic employees working for employers who pay as much as $1,000 per quarter and pregnant women will also be included. And taxes will be computed on a $6,000 (instead of the present $4,200) wage base.

Labor will also push in the 1977 legislative session for an increase in Texas benefits which now range from $53.90 to $63 a week — lowest in the U. S.

Courts Speak

Texas Supreme Court again has upheld Texas' blue laws banning sale of 40 items on both Saturdays and Sundays.

The Court of Criminal Appeals reversed the commercial obscenity conviction of a Bexar County theater operator for showing the movie "Deep Throat."

Third Court of Civil Appeals found Texas Education Commissioner Marlin Brockette was without authority to reopen the issue of creation of Westheimer Independent School District, Harris County.

Comptroller Bob Bullock won approval of the Third Court of Civil Appeals in ordering an audit of quantities of motor fuel sold by three oil companies.

The Supreme Court found a Houston woman is entitled to trial of her $500,000 lawsuit against a reducing salon where she claims a vibrating machine caused her to hemorrage.

Short Snorts

Don Yarbrough will be sworn in as a State Supreme Court associate justice January 2.

More than 17,414 new business corporations were registered in Texas during the first 10 months of 1976 — a 23.1 per cent increase and fourth highest number in the nation.

Clara Scarbrough given Postal Award for work on history of 10th district

AUSTIN — U.S. Rep. J. J. "Jake" Pickle recently presented the U.S. Postal Service Employe Bicentennial Award to Clara Scarbrough of Georgetown and to 15 present and former Central Texas postmasters.

IN CEREMONIES HELD in the Lyndon B. Johnson suite at the Federal Building in Austin, the group was presented the award for their work on the historical survey, "Postmasters and Post Offices of the Tenth Congressional District," which was published last spring.

"I was very proud to have personally participated in design and development of this project and I was particularly pleased to see our postmasters recognized for their work and dedication in putting together this historical record of Central Texas Post Offices," Pickle said.

"MANY PEOPLE CONTRIBUTED their efforts to this unique bicentennial project. This award is a way of recognizing them for their contribution and also a means of thanking them for many years of hard work with the Postal Service."

"Post Offices and Postmasters have been the nerve center of the development of every town in Central Texas just as they have been throughout the nation. There is no more vital link in the chain of growth than is the service of the Post Offices."

Mrs. Scarbrough was given the award because she did much of the work and the writing of the Williamson County post office history. Postmaster Martin Parker of Round Rock got special praise from Congressman Pickle for his contribution to the history and his dedicated manner of operating his post office.

"If we had more postmasters like Martin there wouldn't be any postal deficit, ever," Pickle avowed.

Pickle pointed out that the Post Offices and Postmasters of this district have made significant contributions to the history of our state. "In the tenuous years prior to Texas' independence from Mexico, John Rice Jones of San Felipe was named the first Postmaster General of Texas. And, in 1913, Albert Sidney Burleson of San Marcos was chosen Postmaster General of the United States Postal Service."

"Although we often make complaints about our Postal Service, we should remember that we have the most proficient postal system in the world — especially at this time of the year! I wish to compliment the Post Office for the constant and reliable job they do."

Graves begins Tuesday as Child Welfare Chairman

Linda Graves of Georgetown will start her term as chairman of the Williamson County Child Welfare Board at its first meeting of 1977 next Tuesday.

SHE HOPES to begin a system of standing committees, with board members appointing themselves to the committee they are most interested in.

"It's an attempt to involve all members more actively in committee work," said Graves. "It will give each member of the board an area to work in."

THE FIRST FOUR standing committees Graves hopes to start are budget, board membership, clothing and special times (holidays).

Several board members attended the Institute on Child Abuse and Protective Services held in Austin on December 10. Members who attended will report to the board on what they learned.

The child welfare board and the Beta Sigma Phi organization sponsored a program to help foster families provide Christmas gifts for the children they are temporarily caring for. Beta Sigma Phi collected toys and clothing donated by Williamson County residents and child welfare case workers distributed the gifts to the foster families.

CHILD WELFARE case workers John Monarchi and Tommie Parr, both of Georgetown, will give a report on the Christmas gift project to the board on Monday.

Foster families also received small Christmas gifts from the board.

Graves and Jerry Goree are co-chairmen of the Williamson County Welfare Board for the 1976-77 year. Goree served as chairman from June thru December in 1976, and Graves will serve as chairman from January thru May in 1977.

The board will meet on January 4, at 1:30 p.m. in the Conference Room of the County Building in Georgetown.

Discover 4-H

By CAROLYN BONNER & EDWARD WILKIE

The 4-H Adult Leaders Association will meet Monday, January 3 at 7:30 p.m. Coupland will host the group at the Coupland School. There are several items of business and we urge 4-H leaders to attend and participate in the meeting.

TRAINING for 4-H clothing leaders will be conducted February 2-3 and February 5-6. This training is timed to help leaders get ready for spring and early summer projects. The training will be held at the Texas 4-H Center.

The training will cover 4-H clothing project materials, fashion and fabric trends and clothing care workshop. As an added bounus a metrics and machine embroidery workshop will be taught by Janet Byrd, Representative of Coats and Clark. Participants will make samples to take home.

The workshop will begin with registration at noon February 2 and end with lunch February 3. Travel scholarships are available. For information contact the County Extension Office 863-2318.

4-H LEADERS make plans now to attend the 4-H Leaders Retreat planned for February 25 & 26 at the Texas 4-H Center at Brownwood.

The retreat will begin Friday at 8:00 p.m. and will conclude at 3:00 p.m. on Saturday. This is an excellent opportunity for leaders across the district to share ideas.

There will be training on several subjects and a business meeting of the District Leaders Association.

If you haven't been to the Texas 4-H Center for training you have missed a real opportunity. The cost of the retreat is very small and the opportunity is great. Let's have a good turn out from Williamson County. For more information call 863-2318.

Liberty Hill School Board to meet Mon.

THE LIBERTY HILL school board will consider appointing a textbook committee for 1976-77 when it meets on Monday, January 3.

Trustees of the Liberty Hill Independent School District will also hear a report from their Real Estate Committee.

Another business item is consideration of finishing the floors in the High School. The original tile floors in the new high school will not stay down because of water seeping up through the cement slab.

THE BOARD will also hear the final reading of policy regarding the issuance of staff payrolls, consider offering Drivers Education only during the fourth quarter and consider the issuance of vouchers.

The board has attempted to meet concerning this agenda on at least two previous occasions, but enough school board members for a quorum failed to show up.

Monday's meeting will be in the Liberty Hill High School at 7:30 p.m.

Liberty Hill NEWS

BY HOWARD N. WILSON

This is our very last Liberty Hill News of 1976, and for us it has been a good year.

You, our readers, have helped more than you really know to make our writing the pleasure it has been by helping us to know more about the good things that have happened in and around our community. We know that not all of the news was good, but we must have the bad things to have the proper appreciation for the good. You can be sure that our readers are the most important consideration in our every effort, and we deeply appreciate hearing from you anytime — with your help, 1977 will be an even better year than was 1976.

Due to the initiative of Mrs. Betty Duke, petitions have been placed in several local businesses, including Allman's Grocery, Liberty Hill Feed and Seed, Liberty Hill Cafe and others, requesting toll-free phone service to Austin. This service would result in a slight increase in our monthly rates, but the added service will be of benefit to everyone either directly or indirectly.

—0—

The Liberty Hill Lions' Club Boxing Tournament which was held earlier this month was obviously a big success with the hometown team taking second place. The competitors from Westwood also did well and all of the young men are to be congratulated for their fine efforts.

—0—

The First Baptist Church of Liberty Hill will have a special "Watch Night Service" on New Year's Eve starting at 8 p.m. at the church. There will be a chili supper with fun and games featuring a magician. Everyone is invited to attend this service and help get 1977 off to a roaring start!

—0—

Holiday guests in the Jim Seward home at Seward's Junction were Jimmy and Jane Seward, Clint and Mindy from Odessa; Claudia Robertson and Floyd Ray Carr, both from Dallas; Floyd Seward from Austin; Curtis Hathaway of Austin; Jack Wilson of Elgin; Johnny and Ruth Carr from Phoenix, Arizona; Mrs. Lee Whitley from Georgetown and, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Townsend from Burnet.

Todd, Terry and Jay Linebaugh all spent the holidays in El Paso with their father and grandparents.

—0—

Minister and Mrs. Terry Mullins visited relatives in San Antonio during the Christmas Holidays. Minister Mullins preached at the Southside Church of Christ in San Antonio last Sunday.

Grace and Wilburn Jay and Wilma Jackson, all of Marble Falls, and Mrs. Guy Holland of Yazoo City, Mississippi, all visited in the home of the Walter Jennings family, Jim Casbeer and the R. C. Montgomery family last Sunday.

Bill and Linda Seward and young son, "little Bill", all of of Austin, visited during the holidays in the homes of Mr. and Mrs. W. K. Seward and Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Berry.

Mrs. Isabelle Parker spent the holidays in Austin with her son, Gene Parker and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Arellano, Cruz and Cristella are visiting in Old Mexico during the holidays in the home of Grandmother Cruz.

Melba Lackey and Elaine Dixon went to Bend, to the Sulphur Springs Fishing Camp last Monday. Debra and Dianne Johnson came back with them for a visit.

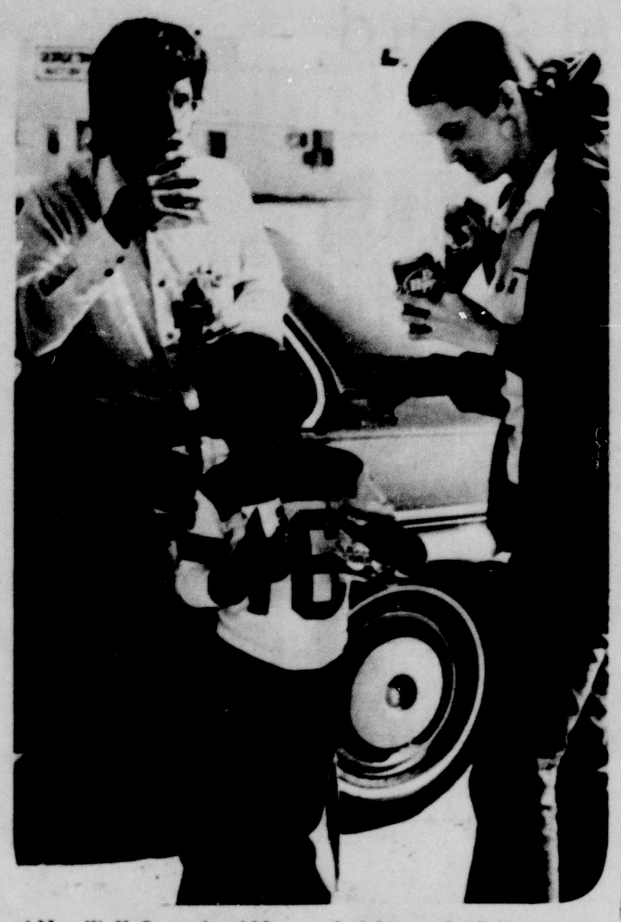

Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Brown and family spent several days and nights at the fishing camp with the Jimmy Johnsons during the holidays.

At the time of this writing, little Jake Parker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Parker, was in a hospital in Austin recovering satisfactorily after emergency treatment.

We can all help to insure a better future if we will just strive to make every day a little better than the day before. HAPPY NEW YEAR TO ALL OF YOU!

KEEP SMILNG

MR. AND MRS. WILLIS FLOYD of Liberty Hill will celebrate their fiftieth wedding anniversary on January 5, 1977, with an open house at their home. The Floyds will be joined by their five children, 21 grandchildren and 15 great-grandchildren.

SPLIT IN TWO AND ROLLING DOWN THE ROAD — The giant Victorian mansion, once located at the corner of North Austin Avenue and Williams Drive (the Andice Road), was split vertically, lifted from its foundation and moved down the highway December 28. The nineteenth century home was purchased by Sam, Sammie and Linda Taylor, who are currently living in Round Rock. As soon as they can make a bedroom, bath and the kitchen in their new purchase liveable, the Taylors will be moving to Weir. They plan to live in the house and do the restoration work on it themselves.

Aliens must report address in January

The U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service reminds all aliens to report their addresses during January.

Cards with which to make the reports are available at Post Offices and offices of the Immigration and Naturalization Service throughout the country. The reports must be submitted in person to one of those offices.

Parents or guardians are required to submit reports for alien children under 14 years of age.

All aliens are urged to report before the end of January, as willful failure to do so may lead to serious penalties.

ACCORDING TO Joe F. Staley, District Director of the San Antonio Immigration and Naturalization Service office, the information furnished by aliens in reporting their addresses has been declared confidential by law.

These reports must be submitted during January each year by all aliens in the United States, with few exceptions. Forms on which to submit the reports are available at any Post Office or office of the Immigration and Naturalization Service. Persons who are unable to pick up a form because of illness, or other reasons, may have a relative or friend obtain a card for them.

The card should have a 13¢ postage stamp affixed and placed in the mail.

Use sun sense

Skin experts suggest four ways to protect your skin from undue damage by winter sun and wind.

DON'T spend hours in the sun without protection for vulnerable nose, cheeks, chin and ears. You can burn as badly in cold as in warm weather.

DO apply a sunscreen to exposed areas before you go out, but remember that most wash off when you perspire. Use new water-resistant Sundown sun-screen which stays on for hours, lets you tan without burning.

DON'T be a sun worshipper if you're fair skinned, even with protection.

DO believe your doctor: overexposure to sun without protection does cause skin aging and may cause skin cancer.

Cullar to give watercolor demonstration

C. Warren Cullar will be the guest artist-demonstrator to begin the New Year at the Williamson County Art Guild on January 6 at the First National Bank at 6:30 p.m.

A transparent watercolorist, Cullar has made a New Year's resolution to make the fun and techniques of the medium better known to Hill Country artists and collectors. He will produce a complete watercolor during the 2½ hour demonstration.

CULLAR RECEIVED his Bachelor of Fine Arts from Abilene Christian College and his Master of Fine Arts from the Instituto Allende, San Miguel de Allende, Guanajuato, Mexico. Beginning his career as a commercial artist and advertising manager, he taught college art for eight years, first, at Hardin-Simmons University, Abilene and most recently at Western Texas College in Snyder.

Six months ago the Cullars became residents of Bertram where their home and studio on Highway 29 are easily identified by the covered wagon in the front yard.

Cullar paints in a realistic style from subjects that are part of his personal experience. His favorites are people, places and small objects with character of "time-ine." For example, "Aries," a painting of a ram's skull against a background of oak bark was one of 100 paintings selected from 500 entries for the annual Southwest Watercolor Society Exhibition in Dallas last month.

CULLAR, a member of the Texas Watercolor Society and Southwest Watercolor Society, has lectured and conducted workshops throughout the Southwest. As a New Year's gift, he is presenting this program for the art association at no charge. The public is invited to be part of the fun.

Rothhammer will give art demonstration for Newcomers Jan. 6

MR. AND MRS. ALDEN GRAY will be honored with an open house, Jan. 2, in celebration of their fiftieth wedding anniversary. Gray and, the former, Miss Myrtle King were married December 25, 1926, by Rev. Renfro in Georgetown. Friends and relatives will host the open house from 2 to 4 p.m. at the Gray home, 305 Patterson in Florence. All friends are invited. The couple request no gifts.

The First Thursday Newcomers meeting will be held at the Rothhammer Art Center January 6 at 10:00 - 11:30 a.m.

Joan Rothhammer will be the hostess. She plans to give an art demonstration for the Newcomers and a lucky person from the audience will receive the art work to take home.

Rothhammer's became the first complete art center in Georgetown in December 1971 under Joan's capable direction. In fact, it is the largest complete Art Center in Central Texas and is well known throughout Southwest Texas.

The center is large and has the facilities to accommodate up to 100 students. It has an art supply store and a large selection of ready-made frames. Joan also has a unique display of art work and plenty of room for informal get-togethers.

Rothhammer's is located east on Hwy. 29, one mile past Southwestern University. Turn left at the Rothhammer sign and continue the short distance to the art center.

JOAN ROTHHAMMER

First Thursday Newcomers are encouraging all newcomers and oldtimers to attend the meeting for a morning of conversation and interest.

The co-hostess for the January meeting are Linda Collins and Mary Ann Lanthier.

CAPCO offers program

A workshop on Service Delivery to Elderly Deaf Persons will be held on January 10 at 9 a.m. in the South Austin Recreation Center, 1100 Cumberland Road.

Members of the deaf community, service providers and persons interested in programs for the elderly are urged to attend the free session.

The workshop is being co-sponsored by the Texas Commission for the Deaf, the City of Austin's Human Resources Department and the Capital Area Planning Council.

No public graduation exercises were held for the December 17 graduates, but all are eligible to participate in Baylor's official commencement on May 13, 1977.

Review
Family
By David Handler

Prime-time television bears little resemblance to real life. The stuff of drama shows is cartoon-strip action heroes, cardboard villains and tiresome variations of standard plot formulas. Sitcoms are peopled by charicatures, and the gags are so old that you can supply the punchlines yourself.

After a painstaking search I found one new show on the air this season that tries to deal with the reality of contemporary life. Family makes the effort to portray identifiable human beings caught in sensitive moral dilemmas. The show raises questions and has something to say about them. Because Family stimulates the viewers while it entertains them, it ranks as the finest quality program attempted this season. But it is flawed.

The Lawrences are a modern, upper-middle class Southern California family. Father Doug is a successful attorney, mother Kate a strong, central ... er ... mother. The eldest daughter, Nancy, is divorced from her husband and lives at home with her baby. Willie is a concerned college student, Buddy a 13-year-old tomboy who I actually thought was a boy until part of one episode was given over to her first menstrual flow.

As I got involved with the Lawrences over a few episodes -- and I did get involved -- I found them to be too idealized within the format of so much realism. They're just so damned honest and open about their feelings that if they're not "communicating" they're sitting around talking about how they're not "communicating." Rather than snarl at each other over a disagreement, or merely share the space of their home in brittle silence, they wake each other up in the middle of the night to "communicate." There are countless deep talks over coffee. I find this all somewhat annoying, but if the Lawrences bottled up their feelings then, well, we wouldn't have a show.

We also wouldn't have a show if they weren't such buttinskys. They force friends and relatives to reveal personal problems so they can get involved in them. In fact, sometimes the Lawrences seem to exist for the sole purpose of coping with other people's problems. A recent episode saw Willie killing himself trying to patch up an argument between a girlfriend and her ex-lover over who would get custody of their illegitimate child. Another week we find the mother, who has witnessed a friend's hubby fooling around with another woman, insisting that this friend open up if anything's bothering her. After all, friends are supposed to "communicate."

It wouldn't bother me so much that the Lawrences aren't much like anybody

SIBLINGS on ABC's series, Family, are played by Gary Frank, Meredith Baxter-Birney and Kristy McNichol (front).

I've ever met in person, if Family's creators didn't try so hard to make them real people. In fact, the show's chief problem is that it perspires with relevance, tries too hard to be adult. Witness a conversation between Willie and Buddy. He informs her an old flame just got back into town. She replies, "Guess we shouldn't expect you for dinner ... or breakfast." Is that really the way 13-year-old kids talk these days?

But frankly, Family is about the only show on television that's worth it for adults to spend time watching. It's decidedly for mature audiences, which can be discerned not only by the content but by the glut of feminine hygiene commercials.

SOLUTION

TV Star Scene

The new year is here and in the TV biz that means the second season, the time of year when the networks drop all their weary dogs and throw a few new bones to the viewers.

ABC was the first to announce it's mid-season replacements, now NBC and CBS are taking their second shot at breaking the ratings' bank.

Besides its new series Who's Who, CBS will air two new sit-coms and two new dramas beginning mid-January. The comedies are: A Year at the Top -- a Norman Lear Production starring Mickey Rooney, Vivian Blaine, Phil Leeds and Robert Alda. It concerns a new young singing group (played by Greg Evigan, Paul Shaffer and Judith Cohen) which is formed when an aging quartet sell their souls to the devil's daughter for a "year at the top" of the record industry. It premieres Wed., Jan. 19 (8:30-9 p.m., EST). On Your Own stars Adam Arkin as a 22-year-old whose search for independence and a career are hampered by overprotective parents and three older brothers. Airdate is Mon., Jan. 17 (8:30-9 p.m., EST).

The first of the new CBS dramas sounds suspiciously similar to the successful NBC series Emergency! It's called Code R and concerns the emergency rescue operations of the Police, Fire and Ocean Rescue Departments of an island community. James Houghton, Marty Kove, Tom Simcox and Susan Reed engage in the derring-do, beginning Fri., Jan. 21 (8-9 p.m., EST).

BIT THE DUST -- Is it true that The Quest is going to be cancelled? I read that it's ratings weren't very good. Please say it isn't true. TV needs Tim Matheson and Kurt Russell. R. Simpson, Poughkeepsie, N.Y.

You may need Tim Matheson and Kurt Russell, but NBC feels it can get along better without them -- the show's been cancelled. It will go off the air in February. Sorry.

MORE ON FAMILY -- On Family, Willie is supposed to be pretty young, no? I'd like to know how old exactly he is supposed to be and how old Gary Frank really is. Mike Murdoch, Amarillo, Tex.

On Family, Willie Lawrence is supposed to be around 18 or 19. Gary Frank is, at age 26, somewhat older than that.

• • •

REAL LAMARR -- What is Hedy Lamarr's real name and when was she born? Jackie Lamarr, Altoona, Pa.

I doubt if you're related since her real name is not Lamarr, but Hedwig Eva Maria Kiesler. She was born in Vienna, Austria on Nov. 9, 1913.

'Meeting of Minds'

Steve Allen brings history to TV

By DAN LEWIS

Steve Allen had an idea for a television series 11 years ago which he persistently tried to sell to the commercial networks.

Now, after all these years of diligence, "Meeting of Minds" is about to premiere, but rather on the Public Broadcasting Service than any of the commercial networks, who have apparently been just as adament about not wanting it as Allen has been determined to see it on television.

"Meeting of Minds" is a unique concept from the fertile Allen mind. With dramatic license, Allen has taken characters from history, and paired them off into a series of debates, six one-hour shows which will start their run on January 10 on PBS.

Carefully selected so that the protagonists represent different historical periods, but whose attitudes, according to exhaustive research ("I'm a compulsive reader," Allen declares) creates strong adversary situations regarding their philosophies and public pronouncements. It's all based on historical fact.

MEET CLEOPATRA, as played by Jayne Meadows, when she appears with husband Steve Allen in his new and provocative series, Meeting of Minds.

For instance, in the premiere show the debaters will be Cleopatra, Thomas Aquinas, the 13th Century philosopher, Thomas Payne, the American Revolution author-publisher, and President Theodore Roosevelt.

Allen himself will be seen minimally on camera, introducing the characters. Little known, but highly professional actors were selected to play the historical characters according to Allen, so as not to distract from the characters they portray. There will be no credits up front, for the same reason.

Allen, a veteran of all areas of commercial as well as public television -- he once ruled late-night TV before giving it up for prime-time -- making way for Johnny Carson's emergence as host of The Tonight Show -- wrote all of the scripts. He has the feeling that the show will be extended beyond its six-week run.

In subsequent debates you'll see Sir Thomas Moore, who was beheaded for his opposition to King Henry VIII's defiance of the Catholic Church; Marie Antoinette; Karl Marx and Gen. U.S. Grant; Attila the Hun, Emily Dickinson, Charles Darwin, the English naturalist, and Galileo Galilei, the Italian astronomer and physicist.

"Picking the first character for each segment was no problem," Allen observed. "It was the remaining three that required extensive research. I had to take into account who could have been expected to heatedly differ on important questions. Conflict is always the key to effective drama."

The discussions are heated, but they are not minus the Allen wit.

"That's where I had the opportunity to exercise my own perogatives," Allen siad.

Each debate has a proponet of "evil," Allen explained. Cleopatra is the heavy in the first two ("It is idiotic to free the slaves," Cleopatra declares at one point). Marx, the father of communism, and his philosophies are on the defensive in the third and fourth debates, although, Allen emphasizes, Marxism was not the subject.

Eagles 'right on schedule' - Noll

By DAMOND BENNINGFIELD

Even with a new coach and a strenuous non-district schedule, the Eagle basketball team is "right on schedule," coach Dan Noll said.

For the 9-8 Eagles, "the last three games (before Leander) were probably our biggest turning point," Noll said, adding that the team has improved "tremendously" in those three games.

And he says the team is improving despite being weak physically and without individual standouts.

"What helps us more than anything is that they all have about the same ability, which helps for a well-rounded club. It also helps our bench strength. The players on the bench are about the same caliber as the starting lineup. It certainly doesn't weaken us to put somebody from the bench in there."

The team leader, both in scoring and on the floor, is Mark Edwards, a 5-10 junior. He is averaging 16.1 points per game, almost three points ahead of the second-place scorer, Joe Jenkins.

Jenkins is scoring at a 12.4 clip. Ronnie Wagner is third with a 9.6 average, and Dexter Saterfield, one of five football players on the varsity, is scoring eight points per game.

Changing from football to basketball is no real problem, Noll says — "it just takes a while to get adjusted to the difference in balls. One is oblong, and one is round.

"If I had my way about it, I wish all players would play in all sports, but sometimes you have guys that wish to specialize," he said.

Playing football does not give players an advantage in physical conditioning, either, according to Noll. In fact, "It probably takes the football players a little longer to get in shape, but only because of the difference in sports. In basketball, the players are out on the court the entire game, but in football they're only playing part of the time."

Physical conditioning is a prime concern to Noll, especially after a six-day Christmas break. He said the lack of work was obvious against Leander in a 65-60 loss Tuesday night.

"Leander only took one day off for the holidays," he explained.

But he said the team also needed the rest after a demanding pre-district schedule, which included three tournaments in as many weekends.

"We played 13 games in 17 or 18 days, and that's a lot of basketball. We were playing Monday-Tuesday-Thursday-Friday-Saturday three weeks straight," compared to district competition, when they will play only on Tuesdays and Fridays.

The level of competition may increase, too.

"Lockhart and Del Valle are the two strongest teams" in the district, and the Cardinals should win it "without any problem."

"As far as what the expectations should be, Del Valle is the team to beat, but everybody will be trying to give them problems," including the Eagles, who could "surprise a few people."

"We'll be a weak sister — us and Lampasas. But our kids are starting to believe in themselves. . . . We've got a starting point."

They may need the self-confidence to make up for the lack of size, the coach explained, noting that their tallest player, Joe Jenkins, is 6-2½, while Del Valle's starting five average 6-2, and Lockhart has players that are 6-5 and 6-4.

"We've got a lot of work ahead of us, but our team understands what our weaknesses are and they are willing to compensate."

"We are physically weak, too. We are not strong on the boards, and that hurts our rebounding. In my belief, you win or lose on the boards."

And while board strength and height may be the team's weak points, quickness and desire are the strengths.

"We're a fairly quick team" Noll said, "and we are starting to build a team with a winning desire. . . . This is a great bunch of kids to work with, and they will surprise some people."

They may be even more surprising in the future, because Noll is starting only one senior, while the other first-liners are all juniors.

"We've got a starting point. Of course, any time a new coach comes in, you are building for something, but we've got a bunch of seniors here who can't build for anything. We're certainly trying to win right now."

District play for the squad, which began with a 58-52 win over Taylor two weeks ago, will resume Tuesday night with a 7:30 game in Belton against a team Noll says is comparable to the Eagles.

"We'll be ready for Belton" he said after his team's loss to Leander. "They're a press-and-run team just like we are, so it oughta be a good one."

Leander charged from behind with a 20-point explosion in the fourth quarter but fell just short in its attempt to beat the Eagle junior varsity in a 56-52 loss Tuesday night.

The Eagles, lead by Marvin Johnson's 14 first half points, jumped to a 31-22 lead at halftime, then increased the margin to 13 points at the end of the third quarter.

But thanks to sloppy ball handling by Georgetown and several steals by the Lions, Leander closed the gap to three at 51-48 with 2:26 to play.

Kent Turner hit a free throw for Georgetown to increase the lead, but he missed the second shot. The Eagles got the rebound, but after a turnover, LaFuenta of Leander hit a field goal with 1:49 to go to make it 52-50.

Georgetown iced the victory when Johnson scored, and after a steal and a Leander foul, a free throw by the Eagles made it 55-50 with 56 seconds to play.

Leander scored again with 21 seconds to play, then stole the ball, but a charging foul ended all their hopes.

The JV will play again Tuesday in Belton in a 6 p.m. game.

The Eagle freshmen scored 21 points in the first quarter to take a commanding 12-point lead, then cruised to an easy 50-36 victory Tuesday night in Leander.

Jeff Davis scored 15 points in the first half, then could manage only two in the second half. Erenio Martinez scored 12 points, eight in the second half.

Georgetown took a 13-point lead at halftime but in the third quarter needed almost three minutes to get on the board. The Eagles put up 10 shots before finally hitting one in that period.

They made up for the dry spell in the fourth quarter, however, scoring eight points in a two minute period to put the game away.

They will play again Tuesday in Belton beginning at 4:15 p.m. in an effort to up their season record to 8-1.

Saterfield All-Centex

Dexter Saterfield Thursday was named to the Class AAA All-Centex team.

Saterfield, a 5-10 junior who also starts for the Eagle basketball team, made the team as a defensive back.

He was third on the 5-5 Eagle varsity in tackles with 38, while he was the leading scorer offensively with 37 points.

He also led the team in rushing with 413 yards in 68 carries, an average of 6.1 yards per attempt.

Glen Saterfield scores for the freshmen against Leander.

Eagles blitzed by Leander rally

After a sizzling first quarter, Georgetown hit a cold spell in the middle part of the game, and the result was a 65-60 come from behind win for Leander Tuesday night in Leander.

The loss dropped Georgetown's season record to 9-8. They will play again Tuesday night in Belton in the second District 12AAA game of the season.

The Eagles had taken a 19-13 lead at the end of the first quarter thanks largely to the field goal shooting of Ronnie Wagner and fouls by Leander. By halftime, when the Eagle margin had slipped to one point, Georgetown had already hit 12 or 14 free throw attempts, while Leander only went to the line seven times in the first 16 minutes of play.

In the second half, however, "we went cold," Eagle coach Dan Noll said. "We didn't capitalize on their mistakes, and we just turned the ball over too many times," he said.

The loss of junior Mark Edwards, the team's leading scorer, for much of the first half did not help much, either. Edwards had three fouls in the first four minutes of the game, then sat on the bench the rest of the first half.

"Mark is our floor leader, and we need him in there," Noll said. "But he did not have a real good night, either," when he came back in the second half, although he was the team's leading scorer with 19 points.

Wagner, with 10 points, and Dexter Saterfield with 13, were the only other Eagles in double figures.

But while the Eagles were cold in the second half, it was a wide open night for the combination of Isaac-Butler for Leander.

Isaac had 18 points and 13 rebounds for the Lions, while Butler hit 10 or 14 attempts from the field for 20 points. Doug Asher and Clinton Crider also finished in double figures with 10 each.

Eighth graders gain experience

"Everybody on the court" is the philosophy of eighth grade basketball coach Alan Perrin, and while it has not paid-off in wins, the practice could be considered an investment for the future.

"Our kids are getting a lot of experience this year," Perrin said while studying the free throw shooting form of his players. "Everybody on every team has played in every game this year. Nobody has missed a game.

"If we're behind, and it's a tight game, and a kid hasn't played, I'll put him in there."

That means 11 A-team members and 14 B-team members are gaining experience for days to come, when they move to high school level beginning next year.

Only one player, Mike Tabor of the A-team, is averaging over 10 points per game (10.2), while Chris Rodgers, the second highest scorer, is averaging 6.6 points per game.

How will they be by the time they reach the varsity level?

"That's hard to tell at this age," the coach answers, surveying his young warriors carefully. "They still have a lot of growing and maturing to do. Here, we're just trying to teach them the basics of dribbling and shooting. We want a good, fundamentally sound program where they don't have to go back and learn things again when they get in high school."

And concentrating on the basics has been a major area for Perrin and his team this season. The lack of knowledge of the fundamentals has led to a 1-5 record by the A-team, and 0-3 for the B-team, which is coached by Steve Phillips.

The only win for the A-team was a 45-38 count against Taylor, while the closest the B-team has come was a 26-28 loss to Taylor's B-team in overtime.

"We've had a hard time trying to get back to the basics. We were poor fundamentally, and I don't even mean the shooting, I mean passing and dribbling. That's what has been killing us in our games, poor passing and dribbling," he said.

But things are looking up for both teams, the coach said.

"Each game we've been improving. The last game we improved I'll bet 100 percent. Our free throw shooting was real good. We had been hitting about 30 percent, but we hit about 75 percent in the last game (a 69-50 loss to Round Rock Grisham Middle School.)

"The kids can't see it, but from my standpoint, I can see where they are improving. I hope that in three or four more games we will finally improve enough to start competing with people."

But he says another strong factor in the teams' poor records is the high caliber of the opposition.

"We've faced some pretty good junior high teams. We've played teams from Round Rock that have just lost one game. They're something like 13-1, and they only got beat by Pflugerville, which beat us too.

They are one of the best junior high teams I've seen in a long time.

"Of course, you can't do anything when you get beat by teams that are better than you."

Perrin said no single player has consistently stood out, although several have had good games.

"The first game, Craig Mosee hit everything he threw up there, and in the next game nobody played good. Each game, somebody stands out. . . . If I can get them all together in the same game, we might score 100 points.

"Our problem is we miss the easy shots. In practice we can make anything, but in the game we tighten up and can't score."

Another year has passed, and things gone by, we cannot change. So ring out the old year and ring in the new with high resolutions. These bells, which have long been used by churches as a call to worship, are ringing an opportunity for you to begin the new year at worship with the Lord in His house. Start now and be faithful throughout this year. Attend Church regularly.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

MILK COOLERS

Before we got our ice box food like milk, cream and butter was kept cool in a thing that was called, oddly enough, a milk cooler. A sort of stand was built on the east side of the old smoke house and the milk cooler sat atop the stand. The cooler was actually a shallow pan about two feet wide by four feet long.

Water was placed in the pan and milk buckets were set in the water. The milk buckets were usually one gallon lard or syrup cans. Sometimes open-topped crocks were used. With the container in place a clean muslin cloth or feed sack was draped over the buckets and down into the water in the pan. With the edges of the cloth in the water, small rocks were set on them to keep the wind from blowing the cloth away.

Water seeped up through the cloth and over the top of the milk buckets. Wind blowing through the cloth evaporated the water causing the milk to stay cool.

Even after we got our ice box we still used the milk cooler. Milk was placed in it for a few hours to cool down before putting it in the box. This prevented the ice from melting so quickly.

There were other methods of cooling milk. People who were luckly enough to have a spring near their home usually built a stone spring house. The water flowing up out of the ground was cold and it made the inside of the spring house a constant cool temperature pretty well year round. The milk was kept in crocks which were set near the water's edge or sometimes submerged partly in the spring.

Springs were few and far between in our neck of the woods but some folks had well houses that were similar to the spring houses. A well house was usually built under the windmill tower or next to it.

Evert is 'sportswoman of the year'

New York

Chris Evert, the No. 1-ranked woman tennis player in the world, was named Sports Illustrated Sportswoman of the Year Monday.

Miss Evert becomes the first woman to win the honor alone in the 23 years the award has been presented. Billie Jean King, also a tennis player, shared the award with former UCLA basketball coach John Wooden in 1972.

The magazine's panel of editors named six runnners-up, all of them women. They were:

Kornelia Ender, East German swimmer who won three gold medals at the Summer Olympics in Montreal.

Judy Rankin, Dallas, the first woman golfer to win $100,000 in a single season.

Future of Round Rock and Cedar Park EMS stations in question

Commissioners to consider ambulance contracts

The new Williamson County Commissioners Court faces a decision on the controversial county ambulance contracts for Round Rock and Cedar Park at the commissioners meeting next Monday.

THE PREVIOUS Commissioners Court voted on November 22 not to offer Round Rock and Cedar Park a continuation of the 1976 contract, which provided ambulance stations in both cities at county expense.

The county offered to keep the stations in both places only if the cities of Round Rock and Cedar Park pay part of the cost.

THE REASON for the change is that ambulance service in Round Rock and Cedar Park is costing the county almost three times as much per call as the ambulance service in Taylor.

A comparison of the ambulance cost in Taylor with the combined cost in Round Rock and Cedar Park in the first 11 months of 1976 shows this difference. It cost the county $26,646 to run 762 ambulance calls out of the Taylor station and $74,302 to run 713 calls out of the Round Rock and Cedar Park stations.

BUT these figures do not tell the whole story, because while Taylor ran 254 emergency calls Round Rock and Cedar Park ran 353 emergency calls. Emergency calls are not only more expensive to run but the Emergency Medical Service has a smaller chance of collecting the ambulance fees.

Last November the lines were drawn. Commissioners decided to bring ambulance service costs in the Round Rock and Cedar Park area into line with costs in Taylor either by requiring that the cities pay part of the deficit or lowering the cost by eliminating one station and combining the Round Rock and Cedar Park ambulance service into one station located between the two cities.

Officials in Round Rock and Cedar Park said that combining the two stations would result in slower service in the area of the county where ambulance service is the most critical, the rapidly expanding area along Highway 183. The other alternative, having the cities pay part of the ambulance cost, would mean that residents in Round Rock and Cedar Park would pay twice, once in city taxes and once in county taxes, for the same service that other county residents pay for only once in county taxes.

MONDAY'S MEETING will tell if the two new county commissioners will change the position of the county.

Other county ambulance contracts are less controversial. Commissioners voted on November 22 to continue the same set up for the Georgetown, Florence an Taylor ambulance contract Taylor is the only ambulanc station staffed by the count other than those in Round Roc and Cedar Park. Florence is volunteer station and i Georgetown the ambulance se vice is contracted out to th hospital.

Medical research shows why a hangover can feel like someone tap danced on your tongue and made you swallow a dozen dirty tennis shoes. During the holiday season, many people will be doing their own informal research on hangovers. The Texas Medical Association points out both scientists and laymen come to the same conclusions though. Hangovers hurt.

The main reason they are such a pain is that all sorts of things are thrown out of balance. A hangover can cause irritated stomach and intestines, altered body fluid balance and blood acidity, too much potassium and lowered levels of a male sex hormone. As the alcohol breaks down and the body expels it, everything generally returns to normal — except for alcoholics whose body is only further hurt by the drug.

People have been trying to prevent and cure hangovers for thousands of years. More than 2,500 years ago a Hindu writer described a selection of symptoms such as vomiting, loss of appetite, heartburn, thirst, dizziness, shaky hands, and sleeplessness. He also mentioned sweating, fatigue, headache and depression but didn't say what to do about the problem. A Greek doctor 1,900 years ago recommended eating roasted hog lungs to keep from getting drunk and hung over. More modern concoctions of raw eggs and hot sauce are in the same category, says an article in The Practitioner, a British medical journal.

The same journal says taking a large drink of water, lemonade or lime juice and a couple of aspirin before going to bed will help the next morning. Some researchers contend there is no cure for a hangover except time. Some people have a drink to drive off hangovers. One article said this action marked a growing dependency on alcohol. Of course the best, and most ignored, advice is not to drink too much.

There is a lot of debate on whether some types of alcohol give worse hangovers than others. An article in the Quarterly of Studies on Alcohol says bourbon gives more of a hangover than vodka. The theory is that "congeners," materials such as sugar, colorings and preservatives, in alcoholic beverages increase hangovers. Vodka is low in congeners and bourbon contains a lot of them. The article also mentions a theory that allergies to certain ingredients in some types of alcohol can increase hangover for some people.

Researchers also believe that smoking, bright lights, activity, noise, lack of sleep and all the other factors in a night on the town help bring on hangovers.

RUM TAKES THE CAKE

Rum cake is an annual tradition in many American homes. However, rum cake probably originated in France according to files in the archives of Bacardi Imports, Inc., the country's largest importer of rum. During the 17th century, King Stanislas of Poland, also France's Duke of Lorraine, dipped chunks of cake in rum and set them on fire. He named the delicious pieces "Baba au Rhum" after Ali Baba, the celebrated thief in the bestselling novel of the day, "The Thousand and One Nights."

Today many hostesses still follow the custom by serving rum cake and rum punch as a popular way to end a festive meal. Here are exciting new recipes for the ever popular rum cake and rum punch.

FESTIVE RUM CAKE

Cake:
1 cup chopped pecans or walnuts
1 18 1/2-oz. pkg. yellow cake mix
1 3 3/4-oz. pkg. instant vanilla pudding mix
4 eggs
1/2 cup cold water
1/2 cup oil
1/2 cup Bacardi dark rum (80 proof)

Glaze:
1/4 lb. butter
1/4 cup water
1 cup granulated sugar
1/2 cup Bacardi dark rum

Preheat oven to 325°F. Grease and flour 10-inch tube or 12-cup bundt pan. Sprinkle nuts over bottom of pan. Mix all cake ingredients together; pour batter over nuts. Bake 1 hour. Cool. Invert on serving plate. Prick top. Drizzle and smooth glaze evenly over top and sides. Allow cake to absorb glaze. Repeat till all glaze is used.

For glaze, melt butter in saucepan. Stir in water and sugar. Boil 5 minutes, stirring constantly. Remove from heat. Stir in rum.

If desired, decorate with whole maraschino cherries and border of sugar frosting or whipped cream. Serve with seedless green grapes dusted with powdered sugar.

RUM TEA PUNCH

1 quart Bacardi light rum
2 cans (12 ounces each) apricot nectar
2 cups very strong tea, chilled
2 cans (6 ounces each) frozen lemonade concentrate
2 quarts club soda

In a large punch bowl, combine rum, apricot nectar, tea and lemonade. Add ice cubes and lemon and orange slices, if desired. Just before serving, add club soda. Makes about 24 servings.

HELPFUL TIPS ON ENTERTAINING

"Many people shy away from entertaining for fear of failing," says Hollace Ann Dahler, a fabricare home economist for Pittsburgh-based PPG Industries. "But by following a few simple guidelines, you can ensure a successful party for your guests, and you'll even have a good time yourself.

"Remember, a good party doesn't necessarily mean a large party," Miss Dahler said. "A well planned evening with a few close friends will usually add up to a good time for everyone.

"Don't allow those little imminent disasters—a punch spill on your new jumpsuit or a cocktail stain on the sofa slipcover—to cast a gloom on your party. Tell yourself beforehand that accidents will happen in a party atmosphere, and plan to visit your dry cleaner the next afternoon.

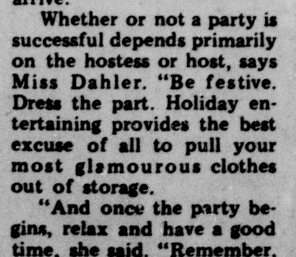

"Always try to complete any necessary housecleaning at least one full day in advance of the party. This includes polishing silver, wiping out glasses and serving bowls, and rearranging furniture if necessary.

"Arrange furniture for the best traffic flow. If it's a large party—more than 12 guests—move furniture away from the center of rooms and out of doorways to allow space to mingle and move about," Miss Dahler said. "Keep chairs in groups of three, or at least two. Don't leave one chair off in a corner where a guest is likely to be isolated.

"Make sure all chairs allow easy access to a table—even the simple fold-up kind—so guests can put their drinks down or reach an ashtray.

"Show off your finest items," she said. "Party time is the time to bring the best napkins, table cloths and linens out of the bottom drawer and use them. So what if they get soiled. A quick trip to your local drycleaner will restore your linens to like-new condition for the next party."

Providing ample food and drink is essential to a successful party according to the PPG home economist. "It isn't necessary to serve alcoholic beverages. Soft drinks or a large holiday punch bowl are sufficient," she said. "But if alcohol is served, figure 20 drinks to the fifth, and allow three to four drinks per person."

Hors d'oeuvres need not be fancy, but they should be plentiful, especially if alcoholic beverages are served. A cheese ball and crackers, potato chips and dip, pizza, cookies, cake and other finger foods are among the easiest snacks to serve.

"Music is a nice addition to any gathering," Miss Dahler continued. "Whether you choose to play your stereo, tapes or the radio, keep the music soft enough so it doesn't interfere with conversation but loud enough to provide background sounds throughout the party area.

"It's very important to allow enough time to get yourself ready," she said. "Three hours should be enough time, and this should leave at least one hour for you to sit and unwind before the first guests arrive."

Whether or not a party is successful depends primarily on the hostess or host, says Miss Dahler. "Be festive. Dress the part. Holiday entertaining provides the best excuse of all to pull your most glamourous clothes out of storage.

"And once the party begins, relax and have a good time, she said. "Remember, your local dry cleaner can restore all your party finery—from linens to that favorite gown—to like-new condition. Just smile and have a happy holiday."

Stay alert and stay alive when you drive

The 55 mph speed limit may have decreased deaths due to auto accidents but fatality rates are climbing again. Many factors are involved but carelessness, especially on country roads, unsafe cars, bad weather and motorists who don't wear seat belts all contribute to accidents that could be prevented, the Texas Medical Associatin (TMA) says.

In 1975 there were 4.1 people killed for every 100 million miles traveled — compared to 3.9 in 1974. The trend seems to be increasing, the Governor's Office for Traffic Safety says.

A National Safety Council study shows country roads produce nine times as many deaths and 14 times as many property damage accidents as do controlled-access superhighways. Blind intersections and reduced vision on curves and hills contribute to many crashes. Being alert and prepared to stop in these situations can save many lives.

A quick check of the car also can help avoid trouble. Check tire tread and pressure, windshield wipers, accessibility of seat belts, de-fogger or rags to wipe off fogged windows, and hoses, belts and fluids under the hood. Problems with many of these could mean being stranded on the highway in winter weather — which can be very dangerous. Even for a short trip, it's wise to toss in a coat and adequate shoes in case there is car trouble.

CB radios not only help spot smokies but they also are useful for passing on weather and road condition information. Even AM or FM radio weather forecasts can give valuable in formation about what's coming Sometimes postponing a tri for a few hours or a day wi avoid bad weather that ca threaten even experience drivers. Arriving late is bette than not arriving at all, TM says.

People increase their chance of arriving alive if they wea seat belts. Even if people refus to use seat belts on shor errands, buckling up on a trip i not too much trouble. Hospit beds or caskets are much mor confining than seat belts.

CAPITAL FLOAT IN ROSE BOWL

Two hundred thousand blossoms, petals and other forms of flora will adorn the stylized tribute to the nation's capital for a spectacular float entry in the 1977 Pasadena Tournament of Roses Parade.

Contributing to the Rose Parade's three-year salute to the American Revolution Bicentennial celebration, the Rand McNally & Company float proclaims "Beginning 200 More!" It symbolizes both the nation's strength for the next 200 years, and the Company's historic role as map maker to the nation for a period extending over more than half the republic's existence. The float was created by the award-winning designer and builder, Vin Anderson, of Fiesta Floats, Temple City, California.

The Capitol dome alone will be covered with a solid field of 30,000 white chrysanthemums, while the topmost see-through area will be intricately "painted" with thousands of white carnation petals. The bridge, with its 50 sculptured balustrade posts, will be smothered top and bottom with more than 80,000 pompons.

More than 1,000 long stemmed roses will fill the authentic Columbian urns at each corner of the bridge. Washington's famous Cherry Blossom trees will be simulated by using 18,000 vanda orchids mounted on trunks and branches wrapped with red ti-leaf. Beneath the trees are a mixture of carnations and roses in nine colors mixed with baby's breath, fern and deflexis.

Lawn areas will be created with dichondra grass sod, while the entire float background areas will be accented with thousands of flower petals, seeds and other stock flora.

Washington's famed reflecting pool will contain 350 gallons of water set into a series of cross-pool baffles to prevent spillage as the float navigates the parade route.

Anderson says 125 million people viewed the parade last year on television and another 1.5 million were there in person.

"Rand McNally's aim," Anderson explains, "is to illustrate the physical beauty of Washington, D.C. to the many millions of Americans who have not had the opportunity to visit it and to salute the new generation as it moves into position to continue another 200 years of progress and development."

Eat your way thin

Whoever heard of eating cheeseburgers, corn on the cob, even a hot dog on a roll and still being able to lose weight?

Well, you can now — on a new, streamlined, portion-controlled eating program to be introduced by Weight Watchers International, Inc., on January 3 to members throughout the United States,, Canada and Mexico and overseas on both sides of the Atlantic and Pacific.

The overall goal of the new food program is to make the overweight "masters of their own weight," according to Mildred Birnbach, area director of Weight Watchers in North and Central Texas. She announced that the new plan is now in operation in her area.

"Though discipline remains an important element of the program, members are now given greater responsibility for control of their eating habits and their selection of foods and food quantities," Mrs. Birnbach said.

She explained that two factors have led the Weight Watchers organization to the view that the overweight no longer have to be confined to a highly rigid eating regimen in order to shed pounds.

One factor is the information culled from the growing body of scientific knowledge about nutrition. The second is the expertise gained from more than five million hours of classroom experience with the over nine million membership enrollments recorded by the Weight Watchers organization worldwide over the past 13 years.

"Our experience in working with the overweight has shown that they are able to handle an eating program that will fit comfortably into their own individual lifestyles and still enable them to lose weight," Mrs. Birnbach said.

The elements of the new program according to Mrs. Birnbach are:

* Greater simplicity for the complete nutrition package offered by Weight Watchers, with fewer rules to learn.
* Fourteen food categories now trimmed to eight concise food groups: fruit; eggs and cheese; bread, cereal and starches; milk; poultry, meat, fish and legumes; vegetables; fats and an optional group that includes some low-calorie gelatins, jams, jellies, salad dressings, syrups and toppings to be used within guidelines.
* Addition of several new foods previously forbidden, including: sardines, bagels, yogurt, tongue and all smoked fish, all to be eaten within limits.
* A range in terms of food quantity rather than a specific amount.
* Reshaping the fish category from 56 species to "any fish in the marketplace" for at least 3 to 5 times weekly consumption, without a one meal a week limit on the five shellfish.

Mrs. Birnbach said that all changes in the food plan were made by nutritionists on the staff of Weight Watchers International after consultation with lecturers, training directors and area directors to determine how these changes would strengthen members' motivation, help them to adhere more strongly to the Weight Watchers program and afford them greater opportunity to reach goal weight.

★Attorney for Muniz appointed

arts major died of a "skull fracture in association with forcible rape."

HILL SAID Thursday that he expected to receive the autopsy report very soon, perhaps as early as Friday.

Walsh said Gutierrez has not informed him whether he intends to ask for a change of venue in the case, which otherise would go to trial in Georgetown.

Muniz, an unemployed laborer, was arrested in Jarrell and charged with murder Dec. 22 after the discovery of Miss Bickham's body between the north and south forks of the San Gabriel River in Georgetown the afternoon before.

HE HAD BEEN under indictment for rape since June 29 and was free on a $2,500 bond posted by Austin bail bondsman Frank Smith.

Hill set that bond in that case after Muniz was arrested May 30 and charged with raping a Georgetown woman.

Hill set bond for Muniz at $100,000 in the current case.

Cut electric bills

AUSTIN, Texas (Spl.)—If you want to cut your annual electric bill almost in half, don't march on city hall but take some simple steps at home, a University of Texas energy conservation expert advises.

Energy-saving tips offered by Dr. Jerold W. Jones include:

—Increase insulation in the attic to six inches.

—Use 60-watt bulbs except in work or reading areas.

—Set thermostats at 68 degrees in winter, 78 in summer.

Format changes Jan. 3

KGTN going 'country'

Starting January 3, KGTN Radio listeners will notice some changes in music programming on KGTN-AM 1530, and on KGTN-FM 96.7.

"WE'LL BE SWITCHING to an almost completely country music format," program director Alan McCutcheon said, "but we will still feature Spanish music daily on FM and our specialty programs on weekends."

Station Manager Gary Seaman said the decision to change to all country music is based on listener preference for a consistent format.

"Our efforts in audience research have shown country music to be the most popular in this area," Seaman said.

The main change will be the absence of Top-40 rock music now heard nightly on FM. "We feel like we've been confusing a lot of people by playing various types of music at different times during the day. Now listeners who tune to KGTN can hear country music all day on AM 1530, and all evenings on FM 96.7," McCutcheon said.

"KGTN WILL FEATURE 'modern country' music which is quite different musically than the records of five or ten years ago. The lyrics are basically the same now as they were then, but country music is more melodic now and more orchestrated. I believe that is the reason why country music is experiencing such a tremendous growth in popularity all across the nation," he said.

Station air personalities playing country music on KGTN include Frances Landry, mornings; McCutcheon, mid-days; Lenoa Burrell, afternoons; Johnny Francis Jr. and David Lee at night. Jim Landry, Steve Wall, and Mike Brabandt all man the weekend shifts.

Specialty programs that will remain on the air include O. C. Blaylock's Soul Show on Saturday nights, Clem Kubacak's Happy Hour Sunday afternoons, sacred and easy listening music Sundays, and the station's popular talk show Party Line Monday through Friday at 8:30 a.m.

KGTN-FM SPANISH PROGRAM director Johnny Francis says there will be changes in his programming also. New hours go into effect January 17 when the Spanish staff returns to the air after a 15 day siesta.

The new hours for Spanish music will be from 9:30 a.m. until 5:30 p.m. Monday through Saturday on KGTN-FM 96.7, with the Spanish staff to include Francis, Johnny Francis Jr., Melecio Salazar, and new addition, Jose Luis Montenegro.

"We're all excited about the new changes," McCutcheon said, "and we've got some new features and contests planned that we think our listeners will enjoy. It's "Mighty Country," and we think it's mighty good."

Football great stresses team, not individual

Stardom comes second to John David Crow

By Larry Eldridge
Sports editor of
The Christian Science Monitor

New York

John David Crow, who would gladly have traded all his individual honors for the chance he never got to play on a championship pro club, can't understand how so many of today's football stars put personal achievements ahead of their team's success.

"There seems to be a more individualistic approach now," said the onetime Texas A&M All-American and 1957 Heisman Trophy winner who went on to star in the pro ranks for 11 years.

"That's not good," he added during his induction to the National Football Foundation Hall of Fame. "Any time individuals start separating themselves and their goals from the group, there's just not the same unity or team spirit."

During his career at Texas A&M, Crow played under Coach Bear Bryant, who said watching John David on the football field was like watching a grown man play with children. In his three seasons he averaged nearly five yards per carry, leading a team which had been 1-9 the year before he arrived to one Southwest conference championship and a near-miss of another.

The 6ft. 2in., 200-pound halfback went on to star for three National Football League teams, earning All-Pro honors.

After his playing days John David coached under his old mentor, Bryant, for three years at Alabama, then spent four years as an assistant coach in the pros at Cleveland and San Diego before getting his own first head coaching job this past season at Northeast Louisiana University. He says that while coaching in the NFL he began to become disenchanted with the prima donna aspects.

"The big money, the agents . . . everything is changed," he said. "There was one well-known back who was always running out of bounds to avoid getting hurt. He said he couldn't afford it.

"I never ran out of bounds like that in my life. When you start thinking that way – putting your personal career ahead of the team – that's trouble.

"Maybe I'm old and corny, but I believe you have to do things the right way. If you do, the rewards will be there in the end." If Crow has any regrets at coming along a little too early to get in on the big money being tossed around to today's players, he balances them off nicely.

"I always look at the other side too, and realize that maybe I was fortunate to come along when I did," he said. "Five years later, who knows what would have happened . . . if I would have won the Heisman or been a No. 1 draft choice. Look at a fantastic player like O. J. Simpson. What would have happened to old John Crow if he had come along that year?"

John David Crow today and as Texas A&M halfback in 1957 (insert)

Crow does regret that he never played on a championship team.

"That was my dream, but it slipped by me," he said. "It was a good career, though. I made money, and I tried to put back into the game what I got from it."

After coaching at both levels, Crow is definitely sold on the college scene – particularly in terms of his own satisfaction.

"A lot of people have the wrong impression of our youth," he said. "They're the greatest part of our country. I feel fortunate to be in a position to help them and influence them."

John David runs a tight ship at Northeast Louisiana, with discipline high up on his priority list and with no place for any prima donnas. He expects his players to pay attention to their studies and to dress and groom themselves properly – which to him means clean shaven faces and short hair. He says he hasn't encountered any problems because of such rules and doesn't expect to – they're just part of the program.

"I certainly am not saying that kids with long hair and so forth are not fine young men," he explained. "I don't say you have to have short hair to be a good American. But you do to be a Northeast Louisiana Indian!"

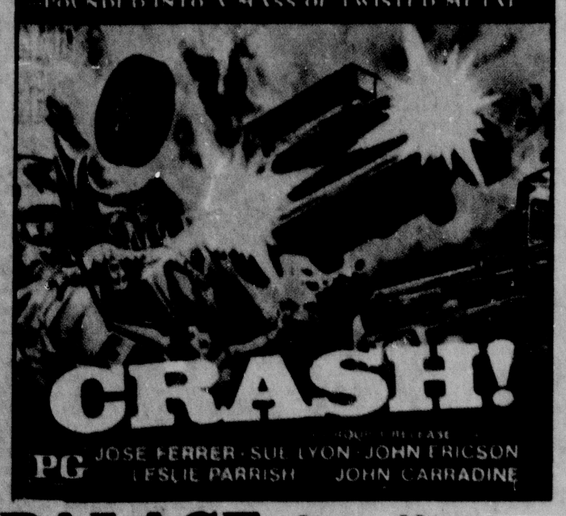

Crow arrived on campus with a lot of fanfare. He was the hometown boy (he comes from Springhill, Louisiana) who had made good, and now he was coming back to build up the football program of a growing school that has bigtime ambitions.

The first year was not too successful on the field (2-9), but he is far from discouraged. He feels the team accomplished a lot in terms of getting the program headed in the right direction.

Much was also made last fall of the fact that Crow is the first Heisman Trophy winner to become a head coach at a major college.

"That's what they tell me, but it doesn't really mean too much," he said. "I just don't want to be the first one to get fired!"

AN EXPRESSION OF APPPRECIATION

As everyone in our community knows, Southwestern University experienced a great tragedy last week when one of our students, Miss Janice Carol Bickham of Van Vleck was killed in a violent act of crime. Her murder is an outrage to our beloved community and is a source of deep grief to all of us.

As we have lived and suffered through the first days of this bizarre and gross tragedy, we have been mindful of the support Southwestern has received from our many friends in Georgetown. The Bickham family has experienced comfort and strength also.

On behalf of Southwestern University, I express genuine appreciation particularly to the officials and officers—city, county and state — whose cooperation, sacrificial services and faithfulness to duty have been of the highest order.

Chamber guest a top speaker

Homer Leonard, the guest speaker for the 1977 Georgetown Chamber of Commerce Banquet, enjoys a reputation as one of Texas' top after-dinner speakers.

Best known as a humorist, Leonard has appeared in every part of the state and the nation and as an entertainer on a number of cruise ships.

HE SERVED in the Texas Legislature for 16 years, including two years as Speaker of the House. During those years he lived in McAllen where he owned the newspaper and engaged in many civic activities. He was named the most valuable citizen of McAllen in 1941.

Leonard now lives in Austin. Among honors which have come to him are honorary life memberships in the Zachary Scott Theater and the National Secretaries Association. He was named "Boss of the Year" for Austin in 1960 and has been elected president of the Austin Club 18 times.

MR. AND MRS. LEONARD have also received many local awards and two statewide awards for their work in behalf of the retarded children of Texas.

Among testimonials to Leonard's abilities as a humorist are letters of praise from the Texas Surveyors Association, the Texas LP-Gas Association, the Jefferson County Bar Association, the Austin Headliners Club, and the Town Lake Chapter of the American Business Women's Association.

Voters to decide beer question

Local option on beer and wine

Georgetown residents will go to the polls on the question of local beer and wine sales in Justice Precinct 1 soon, probably on February 5.

A PETITION, signed by 600 persons was received by County Clerk Dick Cervenka last Wed. After checking each signature against voter registration lists, Cervenka certified Thursday that 541 of the signatures were valid. 533 signatures were needed to call the election. The other 59 signatures were either not those registered voters or were illegible.

The petition called for an election to decide for or against the sale of beer and wine in Justice Precinct 1. Voters must vote yes or no for beer and wine sales for consumption both on and off the premises.

After the petition is checked by the Texas Alcoholic Beverage Commission, Cervenka will present the petition to the Williamson County Commissioners' Court in its next regularly scheduled meeting on January 10.

Commissioners will then be required to call a local option election on a date not less than 20 days or more than 30 days from the January 10 meeting.

The election will probably be called on Febrary 5, said County Clerk Dick Cervenka.

Justice Precinct 1 is one of two precincts in the county that are dry. Five precincts allow some form of alcohol sales. The justice precinct that Taylor is in has legal sale of all alcoholic beverages and the precinct that Round Rock is in allows just the sale of beer.

One of the organizers of the present petition, Claxton Joy, said he thinks the approval of local beer and wine sales has a good chance of being approved this time.

New people to Georgetown, and the college vote, may change the outcome of the election, said Joy.

Three years ago Justice Precinct 1 voted against the local sale of beer and wine for off premises consumption by a vote of 1,177 to 803.

Week's news in a nutshell

Texas Power and Light Company, which supplies electricity to a large part of Texas including a sizeable chunk of Williamson County, shocked its customers this week with a request for rate increases averaging about 35 percent. Taylor's city commission told the firm Tuesday night that it wasn't prepared to deal with that item. "We need time to study this request," TP&L's local manager Bill Black was told. Round Rock is also a TP&L town, as is Granger, Thrall, Hutto, Round Rock, Coupland and probably others. The utilities firm is asking the State Utilities Commission for authority to impose practically the same increases on rural customers. The Round Rock city fathers are expected to talk about the rate request at their next scheduled meeting, January 6.

CHRIS PETRISON, WRITING in the Round Rock Leader, said that new faces on the County Commissioners' Court could change its mood in the next four years. Citing the election of Carl Lidell and Raymond Rister, the article pointed out that each new man has his "own set of priorities and goals for the upcoming commissioners court." Right now, Petrison said, Lidell wants to extend the ambulance service with Cedar Park and Round Rock on the 1976 basis in 1977. "This will be made in a motion to the court." Rister wants better collections by the ambulance service stations and he is particularly interested in providing improved roads for his rural (Granger-Jarrell) precinct.

Operating expenses for the Round Rock public school system went from $2,060,861 in 1971-72 to $7,093,627 last year with the current school year all set to use about $10 million. These figures include construction.

Big Chamber banquet set for Tuesday

Excellent food, good company, a great speaker, fine entertainment from local musicians, and the presentations of a number of coveted awards — that's what the Georgetown Area Chamber of Commerce has lined up for its 1977 Annual Banquet to be held in the Southwestern University Commons this coming Tuesday night, Jan. 4.

KNOWN as a long-anticipated yearly social and civic event, the banquet is expected to draw another large crowd from Georgetown and western Williamson County.

Dinner will be prepared by the Southwestern University Food Service, under the direction of Alan Jones, and served buffet style beginning at 7 p.m.

Homer Leonard, a well-known after dinner speaker from Austin acclaimed as one of the state's top humorists, will address the gathering while KTBC-TV's Dick Ellis acts as master of ceremonies. Georgetown's own Shade Tree Polka Band led by Doc Gamble will provide dinner music.

Highlight of the evening will be the presentation of awards, including those for the Outstanding Man and Woman of the Year, the Outstanding Agriculturist, and a Service Award.

THE BANQUET will get under way with a call to order by Chamber President N. B. "Bode" McCormick, followed by the introduction of Ellis and an invocation by Tom Graves, pastor of the First United Methodist Church of Georgetown.

Chamber director Ken Poteete will introduce his fellow directors and the guests seated at the head table, then Paul Williams will present Lisa DeWitt, Miss Georgetown 1976-77, and the Duchesses of her court. Herb Hanson will introduce out of town guests.

Following the awards presentation Leonard will speak, then Alvis Nichols, minister of the Georgetown Church of Christ, will close the banquet with a benediction.

"THE BASIC PURPOSE of the banquet," said Chamber manager Lloyd L. Longley, "is for the membership to meet. We will be having a couple of other membership meetings during the year, but we hope this will be the big one, that a lot of the membership will attend. This is our time to thank departing officers and directors, to install new ones, and to recognize some of the outstanding members of our community."

Longley pointed out, however, that the banquet is not only for members or associates of the Chamber of Commerce. "There will be a number of out of town guests there,too, including some of our legislative representatives," he said. "We already have some reservations from areas in the western part of the county.

"OUR SPEAKER has a lot of experience and is of regional renown," he added, "our band will be exceptional, and it will be a big social event. We also expect that people will be seated and served more quickly this year."

Tickets for the banquet are $6 each, available from the Chamber office at 103 W. Seventh St. in Georgetown or from any Chamber director.

Deadline for reserving a table for groups or organizations is 5 p.m. Monday, Jan. 3. To reserve a table, drop by the Chamber office or call there (863-2251); leave your name and the number of guests for whom you want reserved seats.

The Feds have a new set of rules making it more difficult for business establishments to resfuse credit and for bill collectors to do their job. This means, of course, that millions of deadbeats are cheering all over the country. It means, also that millions upon millions of dollars will go uncollected in the future and that honest people will pay more for what they buy. Business establishments have no other course but to raise prices when their own costs, of which unpaid accounts constitute a large portion, go up.

ALL THE COUNTRY will be pleased, I think, at President-elect Carter's appointment of his running mate, Walter Mondale, as his "chief staff person" in the White House. This was an unprecedented move. Presidents in the past have paid scant attention to vice-presidents. In fact, in quite a few instances they have ridiculed and embarrassed them. Mondale, as an elected official with 12 years of experience, should be of great help to the relatively inexperienced president.

Attorney appointed for Pedro Muniz

Austin Attorney Gabriel "Gabe" Gutierrez was appointed this week to represent Pedro Cruz Muniz, who remained in the Williamson County Jail at midafternoon Thursday after he was charged with the murder of Southwestern University coed Janice Bickham.

Gutierrez was appointed Tuesday by 26th District Court Judge Kirby Vance.

DISTRICT ATTORNEY-elect Ed Walsh said Thursday he would present the case against Muniz to the Williamson County grand jury which meets in Georgetown Jan. 11.

It would be up to that grand jury whether to determine any possible indictments against Muniz after consideration of the report of an autopsy performed on the Van Vleck woman's body last week.

History is moving...down the road

Were you passed by a very large house?

by PEGGY SWIFT

Truly amazing, a 2½ story house moving up Austin Avenue, heading for Weir!

Tuesday, December 28, at 10 a.m. the old George Washington Glasscock Jr. home that sat at the corner of Austin Avenue and Williams Drive (the Andice Road) was moved after being split in half vertically, lifted from its foundation and loaded on two huge trucks.

Workers from the City of Georgetown, Pedernales Electric Coop., General Telephone, Mid-Tex Telephone and the Williamson County Cablevision Company combined efforts with Curry Homemovers to move the giant Victorian structure. High lines had to be moved and signs unbolted to allow the house to move down the road.

THE HISTORIC HOME was built in 1879 by George Washington Glasscock Jr., the son of the man for whom Georgetown was named. Old timers remember the house as being very distinctive, sitting alone in the Georgetown suburbs called Northtown. It was at one time painted white with bright red trim.

Sam and Linda Taylor are the new owners of this rambling nineteenth century masterpiece. They had been looking for an old house for about three years when the couple spotted the Glasscock home.

Bob Stanton of Georgetown owned the old house and the land on which it sat. He wanted to preserve the historic house but he also wanted it moved to allow him to clear the land for commercial use.

In August of 1975, the Taylors purchased the house. Problems seemed to meet the new owners at every turn. A mover had to be found, utility companies contacted and a date agreeable to all set for the move. In addition, the unpredictable Texas weather had to cooperate.

O. R. CURRY, a homemover from Rockdale, proved to be the key to the moving problem. Sam Taylor's parents had considered moving an old house years ago and the name that came up was O. R. Curry. Lady Bird Johnson had several homes moved. The name of the contractor was Curry. A. E. Shenk of the City of Georgetown Electric Department checked into the names of homemovers. The company recommended to him most often was Curry Homemovers.

Curry split the old house in half vertically, lifted it off its foundation and moved it down the road as easily as some people pull a trailer. "It was amazing how the drivers could maneuver those trucks," Taylor commented.

The Victorian mansion now sits on a five acre tract of land near Weir, waiting to be put back together. Curry will handle that problem too, possibly in as little as three to four weeks.

What then?

THE TAYLORS plan to work on the house themselves. After they get one bedroom, a bath and the kitchen in shape, they will move in to their "new" old home, hopefully within four months. They will work on the rest of the giant structure a little at a time while they live there.

Sam and Linda Taylor are not builders, or interior decorators or history buffs. They simply fell in love with a big old house and wanted to make it theirs. Now it is theirs and as the old timers say, "They don't make 'em like that any more."

DID YOU SEE THAT HOUSE? — The old George Washington Glasscock Jr. home, split in half and rolling down the road toward Weir presented quite a sight for Georgetown residents last Tuesday. It reached its destination just outside Weir around 5:30 p.m. After it is put back together and plumbing, electricity and gas installed, this historic home will be the "new" old home of Sam, Linda and Sammie Taylor. YOUR $600 SHOES

President-elect Jimmy Carter has had "Southern exposure." He was there when it happened to the South.

HE KNOWS THAT the economic renaissance of Dixie relates directly to that area's right-to-work laws. More production at less production cost nurtured existing industries and spawned a generation of vigorous new ones.

As productivity favored the South in competition with other areas of our nation, productivity could prosper our nation in competition with other nations.

Here's how:

WORKERS IN BASIC American industries have been demanding and getting so-called cost-of-living wage increases averaging 8 percent per year.

Maybe that's a good idea; maybe it's not. Let's project the practice a few years down the road and see where it's leading.

LET'S SAY YOU average $4 an hour on your present job and your contract calls for a cost-of-living increase each year. Every time the cost of living goes up your earnings are increased. That sounds fair.

But is it?

Recently your rate of increase has averaged 8 percent per year, compounding. By the time you have worked 45 years—and are age 65 — your wage will be $199 per hour!

That sounds great! But is it?

By the time you are making $199 an hour — the butcher, the baker and the shoemaker are also getting $199 an hour. So your $12 pair of shoes now costs $600!

Whatever that is, it's not progress.

And this is precisely what has already happened to some degree in the United States and to a much greater degree in Britain and elsewhere.

Jimmy Carter has to be well aware of his political debt to labor's leaders. Yet both he and they have a magnificent opportunity to demonstrate economic statesmanship. They can listen to and learn from Britain's Labor prime minister who is pleading, "Please don't follow us!"

And we don't have to.

SOME ENLIGHTENED UNIONS, particularly in the building trades, have recognized that they have "priced themselves out of a job." So they have voluntarily negotiated for themselves wage decreases. They are working for less than the amount specified in their union contracts in a self-interest effort to hypo home building.

These workers — looking down the road ahead — recognize that million dollar houses and $600 shoes pinch everybody!

Good living - here!

An Austin-American headline caught our eye Thursday morning. It read: "Our air is among the best. Health officials (sniff) delighted with (sniff) Austin's rating as a good place to live."

Austin having good air means, simply, that Georgetown also has good air and by this time we all know that it is an even better place to live than the Capital City!

GEORGETOWN HAS A POTENTIAL problem in the giant Texas Crushed Stone operation south of town. Indeed, for several years it was more than a potential trouble-maker, but, in the past few years the company has done an excellent job of controlling the problem.

There will be a time, we suppose, when manufacturing plants, business establishments and homes in this area will be burning coal. Then, we'll have atmospheric problems translated into respiratory problems for a large portion of the population. That day seems at least 20 to 30 years away and in that interval perhaps we will see solar energy take over.

In the meantime, we are glad Austin and Georgetown and all the area has clean air, "among the best."

WHAT WE DO NEED to be working on is tobacco smoke pollution in our public places, such as post office, city hall, county courthouse, libraries, hospitals and other similar locations where people must congregate and remain even though the smoke is doing them harm.

Austin — like Georgetown — is also a victim of allergies derived from cedar pollen. We don't expect to see the day when all cedar is chopped out of the area but we do believe medical science of our country will come up with a better answer for the individual sufferers than it now has.

TEXAS IS A GOOD place to live. It is 23rd in longevity, the best of any southern state. Our area also can claim a lower rate of cancer, and a lower-than-average rate of mortality from heart disease, we find.

So, as the New Year begins we have our location — right in the heart of Texas — to be thankful for. Let's all resolve to make it an even better place to live, work and raise our children.

Unjamming the wheels of justice

By George B. Merry

Boston

Alice McDonough, a Boston mother of eight injured in a freak supermarket accident, has had her "day in court."

But it was three years and hundreds of dollars of medical, child care, and legal expenses after the incident.

Situations like this are not unusual in Massachusetts and in a decreasing number of other states where some litigants have to wait as much as five and a half years to get their civil suits before a jury.

Major progress, however, is being made toward unjamming court dockets and improving the overall administration of justice.

States take action

In recent years at least a dozen states — including Alabama, Alaska, Colorado, Florida, Hawaii, Idaho, Iowa, Illinois, North Carolina, Oklahoma, Pennsylvania, and South Dakota — have made marked improvements in the structure and operation of their trial courts.

And a number of others have taken promising steps in this direction.

Court reform efforts have been proposed or are under way in about three quarters of the states, according to Harvard Law Prof. Archibald Cox, who headed a special judicial needs study commission in Massachusetts.

His panel, after reviewing what has been done elsewhere and seems to be working best, has recommended reorganization of Bay State trial courts into a two-tiered structure, under the administrative jurisdiction of the chief justice of the Massachusetts Supreme Judicial Court.

The Cox Commission proposals, which have the unqualified and enthusiastic support of Gov. Michael S. Dukakis, are focused largely on making the state's trial courts run better and thus eliminate the heavy backlog of cases awaiting trial.

Terming present court-clogged conditions "intolerable," the one-time Watergate Special Prosecutor notes that, in the decade from 1964 to 1974, the criminal caseload backlog in the Massachusetts superior court increased 14-fold — from about 6,000 to more than 80,000.

Massachusetts also has the dubious distinction of having six of the 12 counties in the nation with the greatest delays in bringing civil cases to trial.

One of 16 states

Massachusetts is one of 16 states where proposals for improvements in the court systems are under consideration or expected to be taken up soon, according to a spokesman for the National Center for State Courts.

Besides the Bay State, those are: Arizona, Indiana, Kansas, Kentucky, Mississippi, Nevada, Ohio, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas, Utah, Washington, West Virginia, Wisconsin, and Wyoming.

The major thrust of many, but not all of these, is either toward court consolidations or centralized administration of trial courts.

Although the trend has been gaining momentum, particularly during the past few years, the idea of a central administrator with broad jurisdiction over all courts is not new.

The arrangement was first introduced in New Jersey in 1947, under that state's then-Supreme Court Chief Justice Arthur Vanderbilt.

Better utilization

While no two states appear to have unified or restructured their courts in exactly the same way or to the same extent, court system critics say they generally bring improvements in the case flow through more effective utilization of judicial manpower and facilities.

Improved scheduling as a result of operational changes introduced in Maine during the past 18 months has wiped out all case backlogs.

'Some of our courts were over a year behind in civil cases — now litigants can get a trial in 30 to 60 days," says Elizabeth Belshaw, Maine's court administrator.

HAPPY NEW YEAR!

One of the most important topics that will be in the spotlight during the legislative session will be that topic of "energy".

Many of you have learned more than you've ever wanted to know about "energy" and related matters like "fuel adjustment charges" and the like. I think we all feel that our electricity bills are just too high and those of you who must purchase your electricity from an electric cooperative, well, you are very familiar with the rising costs of natural gas.

It would be a mild statement to say that it will require a great deal of careful, knowledgeable consideration on the various pieces of energy legislation to come up with laws that will do the greatest good for the greatest number of people. I want to mention now, though, a few of the bills that will definitely affect almost everyone:

—One bill will exempt all residential customers from paying the state sales tax on natural gas and electricity. This would mean a savings of four cents on every dollar of your electric or gas bill and, based on my preliminary knowledge of the bill, I heartily endorse it. It might not sound like much savings but over the long run, I think those pennies will add up.

—Another bill that sounds like a good one will require public hearings before gas or electric utility companies could charge customers for increased fuel costs.

I believe that this will help eliminate confusion, misunderstanding and, simply, lack of information, about why there are things like the "fuel adjustment charge" on our electric bills.

Listen to that ragtime sound

"Ragtime Piano" will be the theme for the Georgetown Music Study Club's first meeting of the New Year.

January 5 at 2 p.m. the home of Suzie Snead at 1610 East Fifteenth will be filled with piano music Scott Joplin style, performed by Dorothy Colvin of Austin.

Hostesses for the event will be Flo Mills and Barbara Hays.

AUSTIN NOTEBOOK

By Bill Kidd

AUSTIN — John Tower's divorce became final last week, providing the occasion for increased speculation on what — or who — the future holds for the top Republican office-holder from Texas.

In fact, a few random shots have already come Tower's way, and the new year likely will see the number of shots and shooters increase.

TOWER'S POLITICAL TROUSERS were ripped in Kansas City because of his support (perhaps viewed as greater than it really was) for Gerald Ford.

That distressed Ronald Reagan's supporters in the Texas delegation — and the memory of an elephant, whether Indian, African or Republican, is proverbial.

But Tower's difficulties aren't likely to come from his own party, which is more concerned with regrouping and infusing new life into its rather tattered structure than in punishing its few incumbents for past sins against would-have-been incumbents.

Already, several Democrats are beginning to push forward (in speculation, anyway) as challengers to Tower.

BOARD OF INSURANCE CHAIRMAN Joe Christie, former State Senator from El Paso, has confessed that the race has some charm as far as he is concerned.

While Christie has been talked about for awhile as a possible opponent for Tower, some observers feel he would have considerable trouble raising the funds necessary to have a chance at defeating the Senator from Texas.

After Christie, another former Senator is mentioned frequently: U. S. Rep. Barbara Jordan.

Jordan has great charisma — but observers question whether she could succeed in a statewide race against Tower — or whether she could even gain the Democratic nomination.

Jordan's office has indicated Jordan is thinking about the possibility.

Then there's another colleague of Jordan, who also served with her and Christie on the east side of the Capitol Rotunda: U.S. Rep. Charles Wilson of Diboll.

WILSON ISN'T A STATEWIDE name — and he, like Christie, would be expected to encounter problems financing his campaign.

Another Congressman, U.S. Rep. Bob Krueger of New Braunfels, has been actively maneuvering in the early going — taking a few shots across the bow from veteran skirmisher, Comptroller Bob Bullock.

Krueger's not a statewide name either — and he's a newcomer in the political area.

But he has received a surprising amount of support for a possible race from politicoes in his area — and Krueger admits the thought has been going through his mind.

Land Commissioner Bob Armstrong has been mentioned, also — when he wasn't being mentioned as a possible appointee for the Department of the Interior secretaryship.

Now that Jimmy Carter has filled that post, speculation has gone back to Armstrong as a senatorial possibility.

Also mentioned as a potential candidate is Houston Mayor Fred Hofheinz.

HOFHEINZ HAS THE ADVANTAGE of considerable built-in name recognition and financing capability — and his administration in Houston reportedly has been fairly popular.

But Hofheinz has indicated he's thinking about running for another term as mayor, and observers of Houston politics feel, he's a long shot.

Of course, it's always possible Tower might be eliminated by one of his own kind — State GOP Chairman Fay Hutchison of Dallas has been mentioned for that attempt.

One thing is certain — as the year goes on, so will the speculation.

STATE Capital NEWS

AUSTIN — Southwestern Bell Telephone Company is seeking rehearing of a Public Utility Commission order approving a $57.8 million rate increase out of $298.3 million requested.

At the same time, the company filed modified tariffs as outlined in the December 14 PUC order reducing residential and business rates some $64 million.

The new rates would be effective the first billing day after acceptance of the new schedule by PUC.

"We can't live with the rate order handed down," said Doyle E. Rogers, Bell vice-president. "We must serve the people of Texas, and are required by law to do so. Yet, the commission's order endangers our ability to meet service demands — despite every effort we make to meet our obligations."

Rogers charged the commission "went outside the records to arrive at its findings . . . and guaranteed additional future expense for consumers."

Bell's requirements for massive new amounts of capital won't go away, the company contended in announcing it will seek a rehearing.

Rogers said the company cannot earn the return the commission order allowed while using PUC staff standards.

PUC said it will consider the motion for rehearing in public hearing.

New Job for Schnabel

Schnabel will be administrator of a Texas Rehabilitation Commission program for the severely handicapped. He will join the TRC staff February 1 at a salary of $25,608. Schnabel announced November 8, two months after pleading guilty to a misdemeanor official misconduct charge, that he would not seek re-election as Senate Secretary.

Democrats Rolling

State Party Chairman Calvin Guest of Bryan named sub-committees on rules, nominations, resolutions, legal affairs, education, publications, clubs and organizations, recruitment, affirmative action, voter registration, legislative affairs and budget-finance.

Directing programs will be staff members Dwayne Holman of Pampa, overall program director; Marc Campos of Austin, research; Joe Gagen of Fort Worth, financial development and Ann Elam of Austin, budget officer. Mary Elizabeth Olfield of Austin will continue as administrative assistant to the chairman.

Special publications, workshops, a speakers bureau and a film library are among projects on the drawing board.

Seadock Cleared

U. S. Secretary of Transportation William T. Coleman Jr. approved Seadock's application for a deepwater port license 26 miles south of Freeport, and Gov. Dolph Briscoe said the project will significantly improve the Texas economy.

The project is expected to get underway by mid-1977. It is designed to offload 2.5 million barrels of crude oil daily and is scheduled for full operation in late 1979 or early 1980.

A consortium of oil companies will build the deepwater facility.

Changes Ordered

Texas is under order to bring its unemployment compensation act in line with federal law. If the legislature doesn't do it, employers could face a $600 million increase in their unemployment taxes.

Starting Jan. 1, 1978, city, county, school and other local government employees must be granted jobless benefits. Small farm and domestic employees working for employers who pay as much as $1,000 per quarter and pregnant women will also be included. And taxes will be computed on a $6,000 (instead of the present $4,200) wage base.

Labor will also push in the 1977 legislative session for an increase in Texas benefits which now range from $53.90 to $63 a week — lowest in the U. S.

Courts Speak

Texas Supreme Court again has upheld Texas' blue laws banning sale of 40 items on both Saturdays and Sundays.

The Court of Criminal Appeals reversed the commercial obscenity conviction of a Bexar County theater operator for showing the movie "Deep Throat."

Third Court of Civil Appeals found Texas Education Commissioner Marlin Brockette was without authority to reopen the issue of creation of Westheimer Independent School District, Harris County.

Comptroller Bob Bullock won approval of the Third Court of Civil Appeals in ordering an audit of quantities of motor fuel sold by three oil companies.

The Supreme Court found a Houston woman is entitled to trial of her $500,000 lawsuit against a reducing salon where she claims a vibrating machine caused her to hemorrage.

Short Snorts

More than 17,414 new business corporations were registered in Texas during the first 10 months of 1976 — a 23.1 per cent increase and fourth highest number in the nation.

Clara Scarbrough given Postal Award for work on history of 10th district

AUSTIN — U.S. Rep. J. J. "Jake" Pickle recently presented the U.S. Postal Service Employe Bicentennial Award to Clara Scarbrough of Georgetown and to 15 present and former Central Texas postmasters.

IN CEREMONIES HELD in the Lyndon B. Johnson suite at the Federal Building in Austin, the group was presented the award for their work on the historical survey, "Postmasters and Post Offices of the Tenth Congressional District," which was published last spring.

"I was very proud to have personally participated in design and development of this project and I was particularly pleased to see our postmasters recognized for their work and dedication in putting together this historical record of Central Texas Post Offices," Pickle said.

"MANY PEOPLE CONTRIBUTED their efforts to this unique bicentennial project. This award is a way of recognizing them for their contribution and also a means of thanking them for many years of hard work with the Postal Service."

"Post Offices and Postmasters have been the nerve center of the development of every town in Central Texas just as they have been throughout the nation. There is no more vital link in the chain of growth than is the service of the Post Offices."

Mrs. Scarbrough was given the award because she did much of the work and the writing of the Williamson County post office history. Postmaster Martin Parker of Round Rock got special praise from Congressman Pickle for his contribution to the history and his dedicated manner of operating his post office.

"If we had more postmasters like Martin there wouldn't be any postal deficit, ever," Pickle avowed.

Pickle pointed out that the Post Offices and Postmasters of this district have made significant contributions to the history of our state. "In the tenuous years prior to Texas' independence from Mexico, John Rice Jones of San Felipe was named the first Postmaster General of Texas. And, in 1913, Albert Sidney Burleson of San Marcos was chosen Postmaster General of the United States Postal Service."

"Although we often make complaints about our Postal Service, we should remember that we have the most proficient postal system in the world — especially at this time of the year! I wish to compliment the Post Office for the constant and reliable job they do."

Graves begins Tuesday as Child Welfare Chairman

Linda Graves of Georgetown will start her term as chairman of the Williamson County Child Welfare Board at its first meeting of 1977 next Tuesday.

SHE HOPES to begin a system of standing committees, with board members appointing themselves to the committee they are most interested in.

"It's an attempt to involve all members more actively in committee work," said Graves. "It will give each member of the board an area to work in."

THE FIRST FOUR standing committees Graves hopes to start are budget, board membership, clothing and special times (holidays).

Several board members attended the Institute on Child Abuse and Protective Services held in Austin on December 10. Members who attended will report to the board on what they learned.

The child welfare board and the Beta Sigma Phi organization sponsored a program to help foster families provide Christmas gifts for the children they are temporarily caring for. Beta Sigma Phi collected toys and clothing donated by Williamson County residents and child welfare case workers distributed the gifts to the foster families.

CHILD WELFARE case workers John Monarchi and Tommie Parr, both of Georgetown, will give a report on the Christmas gift project to the board on Monday.

Foster families also received small Christmas gifts from the board.

Graves and Jerry Goree are co-chairmen of the Williamson County Welfare Board for the 1976-77 year. Goree served as chairman from June thru December in 1976, and Graves will serve as chairman from January thru May in 1977.

The board will meet on January 4, at 1:30 p.m. in the Conference Room of the County Building in Georgetown.

There will be training on several subjects and a business meeting of the District Leaders Association.

If you haven't been to the Texas 4-H Center for training you have missed a real opportunity. The cost of the retreat is very small and the opportunity is great. Let's have a good turn out from Williamson County. For more information call 863-2318.

Liberty Hill School Board to meet Mon.

THE LIBERTY HILL school board will consider appointing a textbook committee for 1976-77 when it meets on Monday, January 3.

Trustees of the Liberty Hill Independent School District will also hear a report from their Real Estate Committee.

Another business item is consideration of finishing the floors in the High School. The original tile floors in the new high school will not stay down because of water seeping up through the cement slab.

THE BOARD will also hear the final reading of policy regarding the issuance of staff payrolls, consider offering Drivers Education only during the fourth quarter and consider the issuance of vouchers.

The board has attempted to meet concerning this agenda on at least two previous occasions, but enough school board members for a quorum failed to show up.

Monday's meeting will be in the Liberty Hill High School at 7:30 p.m.

Liberty Hill NEWS

BY HOWARD N. WILSON

This is our very last Liberty Hill News of 1976, and for us it has been a good year.

You, our readers, have helped more than you really know to make our writing the pleasure it has been by helping us to know more about the good things that have happened in and around our community. We know that not all of the news was good, but we must have the bad things to have the proper appreciation for the good. You can be sure that our readers are the most important consideration in our every effort, and we deeply appreciate hearing from you anytime — with your help, 1977 will be an even better year than was 1976.

Due to the initiative of Mrs. Betty Duke, petitions have been placed in several local businesses, including Allman's Grocery, Liberty Hill Feed and Seed, Liberty Hill Cafe and others, requesting toll-free phone service to Austin. This service would result in a slight increase in our monthly rates, but the added service will be of benefit to everyone either directly or indirectly.

The Liberty Hill Lions' Club Boxing Tournament which was held earlier this month was obviously a big success with the hometown team taking second place. The competitors from Westwood also did well and all of the young men are to be congratulated for their fine efforts.

—0—

The First Baptist Church of Liberty Hill will have a special "Watch Night Service" on New Year's Eve starting at 8 p.m. at the church. There will be a chili supper with fun and games featuring a magician. Everyone is invited to attend this service and help get 1977 off to a roaring start!

We can all help to insure a better future if we will just strive to make every day a little better than the day before. HAPPY NEW YEAR TO ALL OF YOU!

KEEP SMILNG

MR. AND MRS. WILLIS FLOYD of Liberty Hill will celebrate their fiftieth wedding anniversary on January 5, 1977, with an open house at their home. The Floyds will be joined by their five children, 21 grandchildren and 15 great-grandchildren.

SPLIT IN TWO AND ROLLING DOWN THE ROAD — The giant Victorian mansion, once located at the corner of North Austin Avenue and Williams Drive (the Andice Road), was split vertically, lifted from its foundation and moved down the highway December 28. The nineteenth century home was purchased by Sam, Sammie and Linda Taylor, who are currently living in Round Rock. As soon as they can make a bedroom, bath and the kitchen in their new purchase liveable, the Taylors will be moving to Weir. They plan to live in the house and do the restoration work on it themselves.

Aliens must report address in January

The U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service reminds all aliens to report their addresses during January.

Cards with which to make the reports are available at Post Offices and offices of the Immigration and Naturalization Service throughout the country. The reports must be submitted in person to one of those offices.

Parents or guardians are required to submit reports for alien children under 14 years of age.

All aliens are urged to report before the end of January, as willful failure to do so may lead to serious penalties.

ACCORDING TO Joe F. Staley, District Director of the San Antonio Immigration and Naturalization Service office, the information furnished by aliens in reporting their addresses has been declared confidential by law.

These reports must be submitted during January each year by all aliens in the United States, with few exceptions. Forms on which to submit the reports are available at any Post Office or office of the Immigration and Naturalization Service. Persons who are unable to pick up a form because of illness, or other reasons, may have a relative or friend obtain a card for them.

The card should have a 13¢ postage stamp affixed and placed in the mail.

Use sun sense

Skin experts suggest four ways to protect your skin from undue damage by winter sun and wind.

DON'T spend hours in the sun without protection for vulnerable nose, cheeks, chin and ears. You can burn as badly in cold as in warm weather.

DO apply a sunscreen to exposed areas before you go out, but remember that most wash off when you perspire. Use new water-resistant Sundown sun-screen which stays on for hours, lets you tan without burning.

DO believe your doctor: overexposure to sun without protection does cause skin aging and may cause skin cancer.

Cullar to give watercolor demonstration

C. Warren Cullar will be the guest artist-demonstrator to begin the New Year at the Williamson County Art Guild on January 6 at the First National Bank at 6:30 p.m.

A transparent watercolorist, Cullar has made a New Year's resolution to make the fun and techniques of the medium better known to Hill Country artists and collectors. He will produce a complete watercolor during the 2½ hour demonstration.

CULLAR RECEIVED his Bachelor of Fine Arts from Abilene Christian College and his Master of Fine Arts from the Instituto Allende, San Miguel de Allende, Guanajuato, Mexico. Beginning his career as a commercial artist and advertising manager, he taught college art for eight years, first, at Hardin-Simmons University, Abilene and most recently at Western Texas College in Snyder.

Six months ago the Cullars became residents of Bertram where their home and studio on Highway 29 are easily identified by the covered wagon in the front yard.

Cullar paints in a realistic style from subjects that are part of his personal experience. His favorites are people, places and small objects with character of "time-ine." For example, "Aries," a painting of a ram's skull against a background of oak bark was one of 100 paintings selected from 500 entries for the annual Southwest Watercolor Society Exhibition in Dallas last month.

CULLAR, a member of the Texas Watercolor Society and Southwest Watercolor Society, has lectured and conducted workshops throughout the Southwest. As a New Year's gift, he is presenting this program for the art association at no charge. The public is invited to be part of the fun.

MR. AND MRS. ALDEN GRAY will be honored with an open house, Jan. 2, in celebration of their fiftieth wedding anniversary. Gray and, the former, Miss Myrtle King were married December 25, 1926, by Rev. Renfro in Georgetown. Friends and relatives will host the open house from 2 to 4 p.m. at the Gray home, 305 Patterson in Florence. All friends are invited. The couple request no gifts.

The First Thursday Newcomers meeting will be held at the Rothhammer Art Center January 6 at 10:00 - 11:30 a.m.

Joan Rothhammer will be the hostess. She plans to give an art demonstration for the Newcomers and a lucky person from the audience will receive the art work to take home.

Rothhammer's became the first complete art center in Georgetown in December 1971 under Joan's capable direction. In fact, it is the largest complete Art Center in Central Texas and is well known throughout Southwest Texas.

The center is large and has the facilities to accommodate up to 100 students. It has an art supply store and a large selection of ready-made frames. Joan also has a unique display of art work and plenty of room for informal get-togethers.

Rothhammer's is located east on Hwy. 29, one mile past Southwestern University. Turn left at the Rothhammer sign and continue the short distance to the art center.

JOAN ROTHHAMMER

First Thursday Newcomers are encouraging all newcomers and oldtimers to attend the meeting for a morning of conversation and interest.

The co-hostess for the January meeting are Linda Collins and Mary Ann Lanthier.

CAPCO offers program

A workshop on Service Delivery to Elderly Deaf Persons will be held on January 10 at 9 a.m. in the South Austin Recreation Center, 1100 Cumberland Road.

Members of the deaf community, service providers and persons interested in programs for the elderly are urged to attend the free session.

The workshop is being sponsored by the Texas Commission for the Deaf, the City of Austin's Human Resources Department and the Capital Area Planning Council.

Ford receives BBA degree

Ford, son of Harlan L. Ford, received his bachelor of business administration (BBA) in finance.

No public graduation exercises were held for the December 17 graduates, but all are eligible to participate in Baylor's official commencement on May 13, 1977.

Review
Family
By David Handler

Prime-time television bears little resemblance to real life. The stuff of drama shows is cartoon-strip action heroes, cardboard villains and tiresome variations of standard plot formulas. Sitcoms are peopled by charicatures, and the gags are so old that you can supply the punchlines yourself.

After a painstaking search I found one new show on the air this season that tries to deal with the reality of contemporary life. Family makes the effort to portray identifiable human beings caught in sensitive moral dilemmas. The show raises questions and has something to say about them. Because Family stimulates the viewers while it entertains them, it ranks as the finest quality program attempted this season. But it is flawed.

The Lawrences are a modern, upper-middle class Southern California family. Father Doug is a successful attorney, mother Kate a strong, central ... er ... mother. The eldest daughter, Nancy, is divorced from her husband and lives at home with her baby. Willie is a concerned college student, Buddy a 13-year-old tomboy who I actually thought was a boy until part of one episode was given over to her first menstrual flow.

As I got involved with the Lawrences over a few episodes -- and I did get involved -- I found them to be too idealized within the format of so much realism. They're just so damned honest and open about their feelings that if they're not "communicating" they're sitting around talking about how they're not "communicating." Rather than snarl at each other over a disagreement, or merely share the space of their home in brittle silence, they wake each other up in the middle of the night to "communicate." There are countless deep talks over coffee. I find this all somewhat annoying, but if the Lawrences bottled up their feelings then, well, we wouldn't have a show.

We also wouldn't have a show if they weren't such buttinskys. They force friends and relatives to reveal personal problems so they can get involved in them. In fact, sometimes the Lawrences seem to exist for the sole purpose of coping with other people's problems. A recent episode saw Willie killing himself trying to patch up an argument between a girlfriend and her ex-lover over who would get custody of their illegitimate child. Another week we find the mother, who has witnessed a friend's hubby fooling around with another woman, insisting that this friend open up if anything's bothering her. After all, friends are supposed to "communicate."

It wouldn't bother me so much that the Lawrences aren't much like anybody

I've ever met in person, if Family's creators didn't try so hard to make them real people. In fact, the show's chief problem is that it perspires with relevance, tries too hard to be adult. Witness a conversation between Willie and Buddy. He informs her an old flame just got back into town. She replies, "Guess we shouldn't expect you for dinner ... or breakfast." Is that really the way 13-year-old kids talk these days?

But frankly, Family is about the only show on television that's worth it for adults to spend time watching. It's decidedly for mature audiences, which can be discerned not only by the content but by the glut of feminine hygiene commercials.

SOLUTION

TV Star Scene

The new year is here and in the TV biz that means the second season, the time of year when the networks drop all their weary dogs and throw a few new bones to the viewers.

ABC was the first to announce it's mid-season replacements, now NBC and CBS are taking their second shot at breaking the ratings' bank.

Besides its new series Who's Who, CBS will air two new sit-coms and two new dramas beginning mid-January. The comedies are: A Year at the Top -- a Norman Lear Production starring Mickey Rooney, Vivian Blaine, Phil Leeds and Robert Alda. It concerns a new young singing group (played by Greg Evigan, Paul Shaffer and Judith Cohen) which is formed when an aging quartet sell their souls to the devil's daughter for a "year at the top" of the record industry. It premieres Wed., Jan. 19 (8:30-9 p.m., EST). On Your Own stars Adam Arkin as a 22-year-old whose search for independence and a career are hampered by overprotective parents and three older brothers. Airdate is Mon., Jan. 17 (8:30-9 p.m., EST).

The first of the new CBS dramas sounds suspiciously similar to the successful NBC series Emergency! It's called Code R and concerns the emergency rescue operations of the Police, Fire and Ocean Rescue Departments of an island community. James Houghton, Marty Kove, Tom Simcox and Susan Reed engage in the derring-do, beginning Fri., Jan. 21 (8-9 p.m., EST).

'Meeting of Minds'

Steve Allen brings history to TV

By DAN LEWIS

Steve Allen had an idea for a television series 11 years ago which he persistently tried to sell to the commercial networks.

Now, after all these years of diligence, "Meeting of Minds" is about to premiere, but rather on the Public Broadcasting Service than any of the commercial networks, who have apparently been just as adament about not wanting it as Allen has been determined to see it on television.

"Meeting of Minds" is a unique concept from the fertile Allen mind. With dramatic license, Allen has taken characters from history, and paired them off into a series of debates, six one-hour shows which will start their run on January 10 on PBS.

Carefully selected so that the protagonists represent different historical periods, but whose attitudes, according to exhaustive research ("I'm a compulsive reader," Allen declares) creates strong adversary situations regarding their philosophies and public pronouncements. It's all based on historical fact.

MEET CLEOPATRA, as played by Jayne Meadows, when she appears with husband Steve Allen in his new and provocative series, Meeting of Minds.

For instance, in the premiere show the debaters will be Cleopatra, Thomas Aquinas, the 13th Century philosopher, Thomas Payne, the American Revolution author-publisher, and President Theodore Roosevelt.

Allen himself will be seen minimally on camera, introducing the characters. Little known, but highly professional actors were selected to play the historical characters according to Allen, so as not to distract from the characters they portray. There will be no credits up front, for the same reason.

Allen, a veteran of all areas of commercial as well as public television -- he once ruled late-night TV before giving it up for prime-time -- making way for Johnny Carson's emergence as host of The Tonight Show -- wrote all of the scripts. He has the feeling that the show will be extended beyond its six-week run.

In subsequent debates you'll see Sir Thomas Moore, who was beheaded for his opposition to King Henry VIII's defiance of the Catholic Church; Marie Antoinette; Karl Marx and Gen. U.S. Grant; Attila the Hun, Emily Dickinson, Charles Darwin, the English naturalist, and Galileo Galilei, the Italian astronomer and physicist.

"Picking the first character for each segment was no problem," Allen observed. "It was the remaining three that required extensive research. I had to take into account who could have been expected to heatedly differ on important questions. Conflict is always the key to effective drama."

The discussions are heated, but they are not minus the Allen wit.

"That's where I had the opportunity to exercise my own perogatives," Allen siad.

Each debate has a proponet of "evil," Allen explained. Cleopatra is the heavy in the first two ("It is idiotic to free the slaves," Cleopatra declares at one point). Marx, the father of communism, and his philosophies are on the defensive in the third and fourth debates, although, Allen emphasizes, Marxism was not the subject.

Eagles 'right on schedule' - Noll

By DAMOND BENNINGFIELD

For the 9-8 Eagles, "the last three games (before Leander) were probably our biggest turning point," Noll said, adding that the team has improved "tremendously" in those three games.

And he says the team is improving despite being weak physically and without individual standouts.

"What helps us more than anything is that they all have about the same ability, which helps for a well-rounded club. It also helps our bench strength. The players on the bench are about the same caliber as the starting lineup. It certainly doesn't weaken us to put somebody from the bench in there."

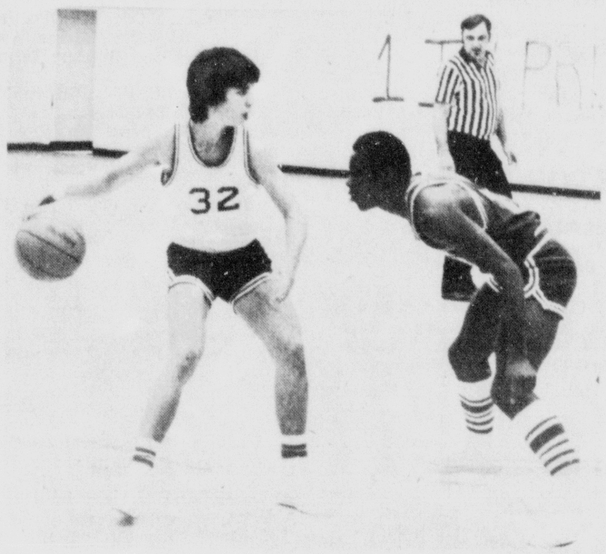

The team leader, both in scoring and on the floor, is Mark Edwards, a 5-10 junior. He is averaging 16.1 points per game, almost three points ahead of the second-place scorer, Joe Jenkins.

Jenkins is scoring at a 12.4 clip. Ronnie Wagner is third with a 9.6 average, and Dexter Saterfield, one of five football players on the varsity, is scoring eight points per game.

Changing from football to basketball is no real problem, Noll says — "it just takes a while to get adjusted to the difference in balls. One is oblong, and one is round.

Mark Edwards drives against Taylor.

"If I had my way about it, I wish all players would play in all sports, but sometimes you have guys that wish to specialize," he said.

Playing football does not give players an advantage in physical conditioning, either, according to Noll. In fact, "It probably takes the football players a little longer to get in shape, but only because of the difference in sports. In basketball, the players are out on the court the entire game, but in football they're only playing part of the time."

Physical conditioning is a prime concern to Noll, especially after a six-day Christmas break. He said the lack of work was obvious against Leander in a 65-60 loss Tuesday night.

"Leander only took one day off for the holidays," he explained.

But he said the team also needed the rest after a demanding pre-district schedule, which included three tournaments in as many weekends.

"We played 13 games in 17 or 18 days, and that's a lot of basketball. We were playing Monday-Tuesday-Thursday-Friday-Saturday three weeks straight," compared to district competition, when they will play only on Tuesdays and Fridays.

The level of competition may increase, too.

"Lockhart and Del Valle are the two strongest teams" in the district, and the Cardinals should win it "without any problem."

"As far as what the expectations should be, Del Valle is the team to beat, but everybody will be trying to give them problems," including the Eagles, who could "surprise a few people."

"We'll be a weak sister — us and Lampasas. But our kids are starting to believe in themselves. . . . We've got a starting point."

They may need the self-confidence to make up for the lack of size, the coach explained, noting that their tallest player, Joe Jenkins, is 6-2½, while Del Valle's starting five average 6-2, and Lockhart has players that are 6-5 and 6-4.

"We've got a lot of work ahead of us, but our team understands what our weaknesses are and they are willing to compensate."

"We are physically weak, too. We are not strong on the boards, and that hurts our rebounding. In my belief, you win or lose on the boards."

And while board strength and height may be the team's weak points, quickness and desire are the strengths.

"We're a fairly quick team" Noll said, "and we are starting to build a team with a winning desire. . . . This is a great bunch of kids to work with, and they will surprise some people."

They may be even more surprising in the future, because Noll is starting only one senior, while the other first-liners are all juniors.

"We've got a starting point. Of course, any time a new coach comes in, you are building for something, but we've got a bunch of seniors here who can't build for anything. We're certainly trying to win right now."

District play for the squad, which began with a 58-52 win over Taylor two weeks ago, will resume Tuesday night with a 7:30 game in Belton against a team Noll says is comparable to the Eagles.

"We'll be ready for Belton" he said after his team's loss to Leander. "They're a press-and-run team just like we are, so it oughta be a good one."

Leander charged from behind with a 20-point explosion in the fourth quarter but fell just short in its attempt to beat the Eagle junior varsity in a 56-52 loss Tuesday night.

The Eagles, lead by Marvin Johnson's 14 first half points, jumped to a 31-22 lead at halftime, then increased the margin to 13 points at the end of the third quarter.

But thanks to sloppy ball handling by Georgetown and several steals by the Lions, Leander closed the gap to three at 51-48 with 2:26 to play.

Kent Turner hit a free throw for Georgetown to increase the lead, but he missed the second shot. The Eagles got the rebound, but after a turnover, LaFuenta of Leander hit a field goal with 1:49 to go to make it 52-50.

Georgetown iced the victory when Johnson scored, and after a steal and a Leander foul, a free throw by the Eagles made it 55-50 with 56 seconds to play.

Leander scored again with 21 seconds to play, then stole the ball, but a charging foul ended all their hopes.

The JV will play again Tuesday in Belton in a 6 p.m. game.

Leander—Faubion 6, Tolson 2, McClish 14, LaFuenta 14, L. Smola 4, Johnson 8, D. Smola 4.

The Eagle freshmen scored 21 points in the first quarter to take a commanding 12-point lead, then cruised to an easy 50-36 victory Tuesday night in Leander.

Jeff Davis scored 15 points in the first half, then could manage only two in the second half. Erenio Martinez scored 12 points, eight in the second half.

Georgetown took a 13-point lead at halftime but in the third quarter needed almost three minutes to get on the board. The Eagles put up 10 shots before finally hitting one in that period.

They made up for the dry spell in the fourth quarter, however, scoring eight points in a two minute period to put the game away.

They will play again Tuesday in Belton beginning at 4:15 p.m. in an effort to up their season record to 8-1.

Georgetown	21	13	4	12	— 50
Leander	9	12	7	8	— 36

Saterfield All-Centex

Dexter Saterfield Thursday was named to the Class AAA All-Centex team.

Saterfield, a 5-10 junior who also starts for the Eagle basketball team, made the team as a defensive back.

He was third on the 5-5 Eagle varsity in tackles with 38, while he was the leading scorer offensively with 37 points.

He also led the team in rushing with 413 yards in 68 carries, an average of 6.1 yards per attempt.

Glen Saterfield scores for the freshmen against Leander.

Eagles blitzed by Leander rally

After a sizzling first quarter, Georgetown hit a cold spell in the middle part of the game, and the result was a 65-60 come from behind win for Leander Tuesday night in Leander.

The loss dropped Georgetown's season record to 9-8. They will play again Tuesday night in Belton in the second District 12AAA game of the season.

The Eagles had taken a 19-13 lead at the end of the first quarter thanks largely to the field goal shooting of Ronnie Wagner and fouls by Leander. By halftime, when the Eagle margin had slipped to one point, Georgetown had already hit 12 or 14 free throw attempts, while Leander only went to the line seven times in the first 16 minutes of play.

In the second half, however, "we went cold," Eagle coach Dan Noll said. "We didn't capitalize on their mistakes, and we just turned the ball over too many times," he said.

The loss of junior Mark Edwards, the team's leading scorer, for much of the first half did not help much, either. Edwards had three fouls in the first four minutes of the game, then sat on the bench the rest of the first half.

"Mark is our floor leader, and we need him in there," Noll said. "But he did not have a real good night, either," when he came back in the second half, although he was the team's leading scorer with 19 points.

Wagner, with 10 points, and Dexter Saterfield with 13, were the only other Eagles in double figures.

But while the Eagles were cold in the second half, it was a wide open night for the combination of Isaac-Butler for Leander.

Isaac had 18 points and 13 rebounds for the Lions, while Butler hit 10 or 14 attempts from the field for 20 points. Doug Asher and Clinton Crider also finished in double figures with 10 each.

Eighth graders gain experience

"Everybody on the court" is the philosophy of eighth grade basketball coach Alan Perrin, and while it has not paid-off in wins, the practice could be considered an investment for the future.

"Our kids are getting a lot of experience this year," Perrin said while studying the free throw shooting form of his players. "Everybody on every team has played in every game this year. Nobody has missed a game.

"If we're behind, and it's a tight game, and a kid hasn't played, I'll put him in there."

That means 11 A-team members and 14 B-team members are gaining experience for days to come, when they move to high school level beginning next year.

Only one player, Mike Tabor of the A-team, is averaging over 10 points per game (10.2), while Chris Rodgers, the second highest scorer, is averaging 6.6 points per game.

How will they be by the time they reach the varsity level?

"That's hard to tell at this age," the coach answers, surveying his young warriors carefully. "They still have a lot of growing and maturing to do. Here, we're just trying to teach them the basics of dribbling and shooting. We want a good, fundamentally sound program where they don't have to go back and learn things again when they get in high school."

And concentrating on the basics has been a major area for Perrin and his team this season. The lack of knowledge of the fundamentals has led to a 1-5 record by the A-team, and 0-3 for the B-team, which is coached by Steve Phillips.

The only win for the A-team was a 45-38 count against Taylor, while the closest the B-team has come was a 26-28 loss to Taylor's B-team in overtime.

"We've had a hard time trying to get back to the basics. We were poor fundamentally, and I don't even mean the shooting, I mean passing and dribbling. That's what has been killing us in our games, poor passing and dribbling," he said.

But things are looking up for both teams, the coach said.

"Each game we've been improving. The last game we improved I'll bet 100 percent. Our free throw shooting was real good. We had been hitting about 30 percent, but we hit about 75 percent in the last game (a 69-50 loss to Round Rock Grisham Middle School.)

"The kids can't see it, but from my standpoint, I can see where they are improving. I hope that in three or four more games we will finally improve enough to start competing with people."

But he says another strong factor in the teams' poor records is the high caliber of the opposition.

"We've faced some pretty good junior high teams. We've played teams from Round Rock that have just lost one game. They're something like 13-1, and they only got beat by Pflugerville, which beat us too.

"Of course, you can't do anything when you get beat by teams that are better than you."

Perrin said no single player has consistently stood out, although several have had good games.

"The first game, Craig Mosee hit everything he threw up there, and in the next game nobody played good. Each game, somebody stands out. . . . If I can get them all together in the same game, we might score 100 points.

"Our problem is we miss the easy shots. In practice we can make anything, but in the game we tighten up and can't score."

TENNIS, ANYONE?

Alison Chapman couldn't wait for the warm days of summer to polish her tennis game, so she braved chilling north winds Monday to practice at the high school tennis courts.

Another year has passed, and things gone by, we cannot change. So ring out the old year and ring in the new with high resolutions. These bells, which have long been used by churches as a call to worship, are ringing an opportunity for you to begin the new year at worship with the Lord in His house. Start now and be faithful throughout this year. Attend Church regularly.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

MILK COOLERS

Before we got our ice box food like milk, cream and butter was kept cool in a thing that was called, oddly enough, a milk cooler. A sort of stand was built on the east side of the old smoke house and the milk cooler sat atop the stand. The cooler was actually a shallow pan about two feet wide by four feet long.

Water was placed in the pan and milk buckets were set in the water. The milk buckets were usually one gallon lard or syrup cans. Sometimes open-topped crocks were used. With the container in place a clean muslin cloth or feed sack was draped over the buckets and down into the water in the pan. With the edges of the cloth in the water, small rocks were set on them to keep the wind from blowing the cloth away.

Water seeped up through the cloth and over the top of the milk buckets. Wind blowing through the cloth evaporated the water causing the milk to stay cool.

Even after we got our ice box we still used the milk cooler. Milk was placed in it for a few hours to cool down before putting it in the box. This prevented the ice from melting so quickly.

There were other methods of cooling milk. People who were luckly enough to have a spring near their home usually built a stone spring house. The water flowing up out of the ground was cold and it made the inside of the spring house a constant cool temperature pretty well year round. The milk was kept in crocks which were set near the water's edge or sometimes submerged partly in the spring.

Springs were few and far between in our neck of the woods but some folks had well houses that were similar to the spring houses. A well house was usually built under the windmill tower or next to it.

Evert is 'sportswoman of the year'

New York

Chris Evert, the No. 1-ranked woman tennis player in the world, was named Sports Illustrated Sportswoman of the Year Monday.

Miss Evert becomes the first woman to win the honor alone in the 23 years the award has been presented. Billie Jean King, also a tennis player, shared the award with former UCLA basketball coach John Wooden in 1972.

The magazine's panel of editors named six runnners-up, all of them women. They were:

Judy Rankin, Dallas, the first woman golfer to win $100,000 in a single season.

Future of Round Rock and Cedar Park EMS stations in question

Commissioners to consider ambulance contracts

The new Williamson County Commissioners Court faces a decision on the controversial county ambulance contracts for Round Rock and Cedar Park at the commissioners meeting next Monday.

THE PREVIOUS Commissioners Court voted on November 22 not to offer Round Rock and Cedar Park a continuation of the 1976 contract, which provided ambulance stations in both cities at county expense.

The county offered to keep the stations in both places only if the cities of Round Rock and Cedar Park pay part of the cost.

THE REASON for the change is that ambulance service in Round Rock and Cedar Park is costing the county almost three times as much per call as the ambulance service in Taylor.

A comparison of the ambulance cost in Taylor with the combined cost in Round Rock and Cedar Park in the first 11 months of 1976 shows this difference. It cost the county $26,646 to run 762 ambulance calls out of the Taylor station and $74,302 to run 713 calls out of the Round Rock and Cedar Park stations.

BUT these figures do not tell the whole story, because while Taylor ran 254 emergency calls Round Rock and Cedar Park ran 353 emergency calls. Emergency calls are not only more expensive to run but the Emergency Medical Service has a smaller chance of collecting the ambulance fees.

Last November the lines were drawn. Commissioners decided to bring ambulance service costs in the Round Rock and Cedar Park area into line with costs in Taylor either by requiring that the cities pay part of the deficit or lowering the cost by eliminating one station and combining the Round Rock and Cedar Park ambulance service into one station located between the two cities.

Officials in Round Rock and Cedar Park said that combining the two stations would result in slower service in the area of the county where ambulance service is the most critical, the rapidly expanding area along Highway 183. The other alternative, having the cities pay part of the ambulance cost, would mean that residents in Round Rock and Cedar Park would pay twice, once in city taxes and once in county taxes, for the same service that other county residents pay for only once in county taxes.

MONDAY'S MEETING will tell if the two new county commissioners will change the position of the county.

Other county ambulance contracts are less controversial. Commissioners voted on November 22 to continue the same set up for the Georgetown, Florence and Taylor ambulance contracts. Taylor is the only ambulance station staffed by the county other than those in Round Rock and Cedar Park. Florence is a volunteer station and in Georgetown the ambulance service is contracted out to the hospital.

In other business, Commissioners will consider designation of County Road 369 as a Farm to Market Road; consider hiring Isedor Knippa as trapper, to replace Cliff Alexander, consider annual bids and consider equipment bids.

Medical research shows why a hangover can feel like someone tap danced on your tongue and made you swallow a dozen dirty tennis shoes. During the holiday season, many people will be doing their own informal research on hangovers. The Texas Medical Association points out both scientists and laymen come to the same conclusions though. Hangovers hurt.

The main reason they are such a pain is that all sorts of things are thrown out of balance. A hangover can cause irritated stomach and intestines, altered body fluid balance and blood acidity, too much potassium and lowered levels of a male sex hormone. As the alcohol breaks down and the body expels it, everything generally returns to normal — except for alcoholics whose body is only further hurt by the drug.

People have been trying to prevent and cure hangovers for thousands of years. More than 2,500 years ago a Hindu writer described a selection of symptoms such as vomiting, loss of appetite, heartburn, thirst, dizziness, shaky hands, and sleeplessness. He also mentioned sweating, fatigue, headache and depression but didn't say what to do about the problem. A Greek doctor 1,900 years ago recommended eating roasted hog lungs to keep from getting drunk and hung over. More modern concoctions of raw eggs and hot sauce are in the same category, says an article in The Practitioner, a British medical journal.

The same journal says taking a large drink of water, lemonade or lime juice and a couple of aspirin before going to bed will help the next morning. Some researchers contend there is no cure for a hangover except time. Some people have a drink to drive off hangovers. One article said this action marked a growing dependency on alcohol. Of course the best, and most ignored, advice is not to drink too much.

There is a lot of debate on whether some types of alcohol give worse hangovers than others. An article in the Quarterly of Studies on Alcohol says bourbon gives more of a hangover than vodka. The theory is that "congeners," materials such as sugar, colorings and preservatives, in alcoholic beverages increase hangovers. Vodka is low in congeners and bourbon contains a lot of them. The article also mentions a theory that allergies to certain ingredients in some types of alcohol can increase hangover for some people.

Researchers also believe that smoking, bright lights, activity, noise, lack of sleep and all the other factors in a night on the town help bring on hangovers.

RUM TAKES THE CAKE

Rum cake is an annual tradition in many American homes. However, rum cake probably originated in France according to files in the archives of Bacardi Imports, Inc., the country's largest importer of rum. During the 17th century, King Stanislas of Poland, also France's Duke of Lorraine, dipped chunks of cake in rum and set them on fire. He named the delicious pieces "Baba au Rhum" after Ali Baba, the celebrated thief in the bestselling novel of the day, "The Thousand and One Nights."

Today many hostesses still follow the custom by serving rum cake and rum punch as a popular way to end a festive meal. Here are exciting new recipes for the ever popular rum cake and rum punch.

FESTIVE RUM CAKE

Cake:
- 1 cup chopped pecans or walnuts
- 1 18 1/2-oz. pkg. yellow cake mix
- 1 3 3/4-oz. pkg. instant vanilla pudding mix
- 4 eggs
- 1/2 cup cold water
- 1/2 cup oil
- 1/2 cup Bacardi dark rum (80 proof)

Glaze:
- 1/4 lb. butter
- 1/4 cup water
- 1 cup granulated sugar
- 1/2 cup Bacardi dark rum

Preheat oven to 325°F. Grease and flour 10-inch tube or 12-cup bundt pan. Sprinkle nuts over bottom of pan. Mix all cake ingredients together; pour batter over nuts. Bake 1 hour. Cool. Invert on serving plate. Prick top. Drizzle and smooth glaze evenly over top and sides. Allow cake to absorb glaze. Repeat till all glaze is used.

For glaze, melt butter in saucepan. Stir in water and sugar. Boil 5 minutes, stirring constantly. Remove from heat. Stir in rum.

If desired, decorate with whole maraschino cherries and border of sugar frosting or whipped cream. Serve with seedless green grapes dusted with powdered sugar.

RUM TEA PUNCH

- 1 quart Bacardi light rum
- 2 cans (12 ounces each) apricot nectar
- 2 cups very strong tea, chilled
- 2 cans (6 ounces each) frozen lemonade concentrate
- 2 quarts club soda

In a large punch bowl, combine rum, apricot nectar, tea and lemonade. Add ice cubes and lemon and orange slices, if desired. Just before serving, add club soda. Makes about 24 servings.

HELPFUL TIPS ON ENTERTAINING

"Many people shy away from entertaining for fear of failing," says Hollace Ann Dahler, a fabricare home economist for Pittsburgh-based PPG Industries. "But by following a few simple guidelines, you can ensure a successful party for your guests, and you'll even have a good time yourself.

"Remember, a good party doesn't necessarily mean a large party," Miss Dahler said. "A well planned evening with a few close friends will usually add up to a good time for everyone.

"Don't allow those little imminent disasters—a punch spill on your new jumpsuit or a cocktail stain on the sofa slipcover—to cast a gloom on your party. Tell yourself beforehand that accidents will happen in a party atmosphere, and plan to visit your dry cleaner the next afternoon.

"Always try to complete any necessary housecleaning at least one full day in advance of the party. This includes polishing silver, wiping out glasses and serving bowls, and rearranging furniture if necessary.

"Arrange furniture for the best traffic flow. If it's a large party—more than 12 guests—move furniture away from the center of rooms and out of doorways to allow space to mingle and move about," Miss Dahler said. "Keep chairs in groups of three, or at least two. Don't leave one chair off in a corner where a guest is likely to be isolated.

"Make sure all chairs allow easy access to a table—even the simple fold-up kind—so guests can put their drinks down or reach an ashtray.

"Show off your finest items," she said. "Party time is the time to bring the best napkins, table cloths and linens out of the bottom drawer and use them. So what if they get soiled. A quick trip to your local drycleaner will restore your linens to like-new condition for the next party."

Providing ample food and drink is essential to a successful party according to the PPG home economist. "It isn't necessary to serve alcoholic beverages. Soft drinks or a large holiday punch bowl are sufficient," she said. "But if alcohol is served, figure 20 drinks to the fifth, and allow three to four drinks per person."

Hors d'oeuvres need not be fancy, but they should be plentiful, especially if alcoholic beverages are served. A cheese ball and crackers, potato chips and dip, pizza, cookies, cake and other finger foods are among the easiest snacks to serve.

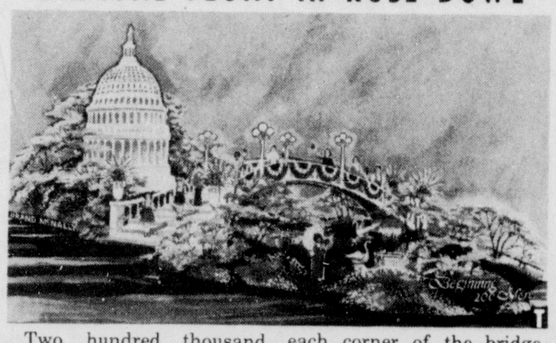

"Music is a nice addition to any gathering," Miss Dahler continued. "Whether you choose to play your stereo, tapes or the radio, keep the music soft enough so it doesn't interfere with conversation but loud enough to provide background sounds throughout the party area.

"It's very important to allow enough time to get yourself ready," she said. "Three hours should be enough time, and this should leave at least one hour for you to sit and unwind before the first guests arrive."

Whether or not a party is successful depends primarily on the hostess or host, says Miss Dahler. "Be festive. Dress the part. Holiday entertaining provides the best excuse of all to pull your most glamourous clothes out of storage.

"And once the party begins, relax and have a good time, she said. "Remember, your local dry cleaner can restore all your party finery—from linens to that favorite gown—to like-new condition. Just smile and have a happy holiday."

CAPITAL FLOAT IN ROSE BOWL

Two hundred thousand blossoms, petals and other forms of flora will adorn the stylized tribute to the nation's capital for a spectacular float entry in the 1977 Pasadena Tournament of Roses Parade.

Contributing to the Rose Parade's three-year salute to the American Revolution Bicentennial celebration, the Rand McNally & Company float proclaims "Beginning 200 More!" It symbolizes both the nation's strength for the next 200 years, and the Company's historic role as map maker to the nation for a period extending over more than half the republic's existence. The float was created by the award-winning designer and builder, Vin Anderson, of Fiesta Floats, Temple City, California.

The Capitol dome alone will be covered with a solid field of 30,000 white chrysanthemums, while the topmost see-through area will be intricately "painted" with thousands of white carnation petals. The bridge, with its 50 sculptured balustrade posts, will be smothered top and bottom with more than 80,000 pompons.

More than 1,000 long stemmed roses will fill the authentic Columbian urns at each corner of the bridge. Washington's famous Cherry Blossom trees will be simulated by using 18,000 vanda orchids mounted on trunks and branches wrapped with red ti-leaf. Beneath the trees are a mixture of carnations and roses in nine colors mixed with baby's breath, fern and deflexis.

Lawn areas will be created with dichondra grass sod, while the entire float background areas will be accented with thousands of flower petals, seeds and other stock flora.

Washington's famed reflecting pool will contain 350 gallons of water set into a series of cross-pool baffles to prevent spillage as the float navigates the parade route.

Anderson says 125 million people viewed the parade last year on television and another 1.5 million were there in person.

"Rand McNally's aim," Anderson explains, "is to illustrate the physical beauty of Washington, D.C. to the many millions of Americans who have not had the opportunity to visit it and to salute the new generation as it moves into position to continue another 200 years of progress and development."

Stay alert and stay alive when you drive

The 55 mph speed limit may have decreased deaths due to auto accidents but fatality rates are climbing again. Many factors are involved but carelessness, especially on country roads, unsafe cars, bad weather and motorists who don't wear seat belts all contribute to accidents that could be prevented, the Texas Medical Associatin (TMA) says.

In 1975 there were 4.1 people killed for every 100 million miles traveled — compared to 3.9 in 1974. The trend seems to be increasing, the Governor's Office for Traffic Safety says.

A National Safety Council study shows country roads produce nine times as many deaths and 14 times as many property damage accidents as do controlled-access superhighways. Blind intersections and reduced vision on curves and hills contribute to many crashes. Being alert and prepared to stop in these situations can save many lives.

A quick check of the car also can help avoid trouble. Check tire tread and pressure, windshield wipers, accessibility of seat belts, de-fogger or rags to wipe off fogged windows, and hoses, belts and fluids under the hood. Problems with many of these could mean being stranded on the highway in winter weather — which can be very dangerous. Even for a short trip, it's wise to toss in a coat and adequate shoes in case there is car trouble.

CB radios not only help spot smokies but they also are useful for passing on weather and road condition information. Even AM or FM radio weather forecasts can give valuable information about what's coming. Sometimes postponing a trip for a few hours or a day will avoid bad weather that can threaten even experienced drivers. Arriving late is better than not arriving at all, TMA says.

People increase their chances of arriving alive if they wear seat belts. Even if people refuse to use seat belts on short errands, buckling up on a trip is not too much trouble. Hospital beds or caskets are much more confining than seat belts.

Eat your way thin

Whoever heard of eating cheeseburgers, corn on the cob, even a hot dog on a roll and still being able to lose weight?

Well, you can now — on a new, streamlined, portion-controlled eating program to be introduced by Weight Watchers International, Inc., on January 3 to members throughout the United States,, Canada and Mexico and overseas on both sides of the Atlantic and Pacific.

The overall goal of the new food program is to make the overweight "masters of their own weight," according to Mildred Birnbach, area director of Weight Watchers in North and Central Texas. She announced that the new plan is now in operation in her area.

"Though discipline remains an important element of the program, members are now given greater responsibility for control of their eating habits and their selection of foods and food quantities," Mrs. Birnbach said.

She explained that two factors have led the Weight Watchers organization to the view that the overweight no longer have to be confined to a highly rigid eating regimen in order to shed pounds.

One factor is the information culled from the growing body of scientific knowledge about nutrition. The second is the expertise gained from more than five million hours of classroom experience with the over nine million membership enrollments recorded by the Weight Watchers organization worldwide over the past 13 years.

"Our experience in working with the overweight has shown that they are able to handle an eating program that will fit comfortably into their own individual lifestyles and still enable them to lose weight," Mrs. Birnbach said.

The elements of the new program according to Mrs. Birnbach are:

- Greater simplicity for the complete nutrition package offered by Weight Watchers, with fewer rules to learn.
- Fourteen food categories now trimmed to eight concise food groups: fruit; eggs and cheese; bread, cereal and starches; milk; poultry, meat, fish and legumes; vegetables; fats and an optional group that includes some low-calorie gelatins, jams, jellies, salad dressings, syrups and toppings to be used within guidelines.
- Addition of several new foods previously forbidden, including: sardines, bagels, yogurt, tongue and all smoked fish, all to be eaten within limits.
- A range in terms of food quantity rather than a specific amount.
- Reshaping the fish category from 56 species to "any fish in the marketplace" for at least 3 to 5 times weekly consumption, without a one meal a week limit on the five shellfish.

Mrs. Birnbach said that all changes in the food plan were made by nutritionists on the staff of Weight Watchers International after consultation with lecturers, training directors and area directors to determine how these changes would strengthen members' motivation, help them to adhere more strongly to the Weight Watchers program and afford them greater opportunity to reach goal weight.

★Attorney for Muniz appointed

arts major died of a "skull fracture in association with forcible rape."

HILL SAID Thursday that he expected to receive the autopsy report very soon, perhaps as early as Friday.

Walsh said Gutierrez has not informed him whether he intends to ask for a change of venue in the case, which otherise would go to trial in Georgetown.

Muniz, an unemployed laborer, was arrested in Jarrell and charged with murder Dec. 22 after the discovery of Miss Bickham's body between the north and south forks of the San Gabriel River in Georgetown the afternoon before.

HE HAD BEEN under indictment for rape since June 29 and was free on a $2,500 bond posted by Austin bail bondsman Frank Smith.

Hill set that bond in that case after Muniz was arrested May 30 and charged with raping a Georgetown woman.

Cut electric bills

AUSTIN, Texas (Spl.)—If you want to cut your annual electric bill almost in half, don't march on city hall but take some simple steps at home, a University of Texas energy conservation expert advises.

Energy-saving tips offered by Dr. Jerold W. Jones include:

—Increase insulation in the attic to six inches.

—Use 60-watt bulbs except in work or reading areas.

—Set thermostats at 68 degrees in winter, 78 in summer.

Format changes Jan. 3

KGTN going 'country'

Starting January 3, KGTN Radio listeners will notice some changes in music programming on KGTN-AM 1530, and on KGTN-FM 96.7.

"WE'LL BE SWITCHING to an almost completely country music format," program director Alan McCutcheon said, "but we will still feature Spanish music daily on FM and our specialty programs on weekends."

Station Manager Gary Seaman said the decision to change to all country music is based on listener preference for a consistent format.

"Our efforts in audience research have shown country music to be the most popular in this area," Seaman said.

The main change will be the absence of Top-40 rock music now heard nightly on FM. "We feel like we've been confusing a lot of people by playing various types of music at different times during the day. Now listeners who tune to KGTN can hear country music all day on AM 1530, and all evenings on FM 96.7," McCutcheon said.

"KGTN WILL FEATURE 'modern country' music which is quite different musically than the records of five or ten years ago. The lyrics are basically the same now as they were then, but country music is more melodic now and more orchestrated. I believe that is the reason why country music is experiencing such a tremendous growth in popularity all across the nation," he said.

Station air personalities playing country music on KGTN include Frances Landry, mornings; McCutcheon, mid-days; Lenoa Burrell, afternoons; Johnny Francis Jr. and David Lee at night. Jim Landry, Steve Wall, and Mike Brabandt all man the weekend shifts.

Specialty programs that will remain on the air include O. C. Blaylock's Soul Show on Saturday nights, Clem Kubacak's Happy Hour Sunday afternoons, sacred and easy listening music Sundays, and the station's popular talk show Party Line Monday through Friday at 8:30 a.m.

KGTN-FM SPANISH PROGRAM director Johnny Francis says there will be changes in his programming also. New hours go into effect January 17 when the Spanish staff returns to the air after a 15 day siesta.

The new hours for Spanish music will be from 9:30 a.m. until 5:30 p.m. Monday through Saturday on KGTN-FM 96.7, with the Spanish staff to include Francis, Johnny Francis Jr., Melecio Salazar, and new addition, Jose Luis Montenegro.

"We're all excited about the new changes," McCutcheon said, "and we've got some new features and contests planned that we think our listeners will enjoy. It's "Mighty Country," and we think it's mighty good."

Football great stresses team, not individual

Stardom comes second to John David Crow

By Larry Eldridge
Sports editor of
The Christian Science Monitor

New York

John David Crow, who would gladly have traded all his individual honors for the chance he never got to play on a championship pro club, can't understand how so many of today's football stars put personal achievements ahead of their team's success.

"There seems to be a more individualistic approach now," said the onetime Texas A&M All-American and 1957 Heisman Trophy winner who went on to star in the pro ranks for 11 years.

"That's not good," he added during his induction to the National Football Foundation Hall of Fame. "Any time individuals start separating themselves and their goals from the group, there's just not the same unity or team spirit."

During his career at Texas A&M, Crow played under Coach Bear Bryant, who said watching John David on the football field was like watching a grown man play with children. In his three seasons he averaged nearly five yards per carry, leading a team which had been 1-9 the year before he arrived to one Southwest conference championship and a near-miss of another.

The 6ft. 2in., 200-pound halfback went on to star for three National Football League teams, earning All-Pro honors.

After his playing days John David coached under his old mentor, Bryant, for three years at Alabama, then spent four years as an assistant coach in the pros at Cleveland and San Diego before getting his own first head-coaching job this past season at Northeast Louisiana University. He says that while coaching in the NFL he began to become disenchanted with the prima donna aspects.

"The big money, the agents . . . everything is changed," he said. "There was one well-known back who was always running out of bounds to avoid getting hurt. He said he couldn't afford it.

"I never ran out of bounds like that in my life. When you start thinking that way – putting your personal career ahead of the team – that's trouble.

"Maybe I'm old and corny, but I believe you have to do things the right way. If you do, the rewards will be there in the end." If Crow has any regrets at coming along a little too early to get in on the big money being tossed around to today's players, he balances them off nicely.

"I always look at the other side too, and realize that maybe I was fortunate to come along when I did," he said. "Five years later, who knows what would have happened . . . if I would have won the Heisman or been a No. 1 draft choice. Look at a fantastic player like O. J. Simpson. What would have happened to old John Crow if he had come along that year?"

Crow does regret that he never played on a championship team.

"That was my dream, but it slipped by me," he said. "It was a good career, though. I made money, and I tried to put back into the game what I got from it."

After coaching at both levels, Crow is definitely sold on the college scene – particularly in terms of his own satisfaction.

"A lot of people have the wrong impression of our youth," he said. "They're the greatest part of our country. I feel fortunate to be in a position to help them and influence them."

John David runs a tight ship at Northeast Louisiana, with discipline high up on his priority list and with no place for any prima donnas. He expects his players to pay attention to their studies and to dress and groom themselves properly – which to him means clean shaven faces and short hair. He says he hasn't encountered any problems because of such rules and doesn't expect to – they're just part of the program.

"I certainly am not saying that kids with long hair and so forth are not fine young men," he explained. "I don't say you have to have short hair to be a good American. But you do to be a Northeast Louisiana Indian!"

Crow arrived on campus with a lot of fanfare. He was the hometown boy (he comes from Springhill, Louisiana) who had made good, and now he was coming back to build up the football program of a growing school that has bigtime ambitions.

The first year was not too successful on the field (2-9), but he is far from discouraged. He feels the team accomplished a lot in terms of getting the program headed in the right direction.

Much was also made last fall of the fact that Crow is the first Heisman Trophy winner to become a head coach at a major college.

"That's what they tell me, but it doesn't really mean too much," he said. "I just don't want to be the first one to get fired!"

AN EXPRESSION OF APPPRECIATION

As everyone in our community knows, Southwestern University experienced a great tragedy last week when one of our students, Miss Janice Carol Bickham of Van Vleck was killed in a violent act of crime. Her murder is an outrage to our beloved community and is a source of deep grief to all of us.

As we have lived and suffered through the first days of this bizarre and gross tragedy, we have been mindful of the support Southwestern has received from our many friends in Georgetown. The Bickham family has experienced comfort and strength also.

On behalf of Southwestern University, I express genuine appreciation particularly to the officials and officers—city, county and state — whose cooperation, sacrificial services and faithfulness to duty have been of the highest order.

Durwood Fleming, President
Southwestern University
